EURO2020

The madness in Group F completes first stage ride

A big night in the Group of Death saw wild swings, a dubious penalty call, a Ronaldo record as well as setting up a historic clash in the prequarter stage

GERMANY BATTLE, RONALDO EQUALS MARK

The last three years has not been good for Germany's fans. After failing to advance past the group stage in 2018 World Cup, Joachim Low's team trailed twice before scoring an 84th minute equaliser to progress. Elsewhere, Portugal survived their own test with a draw against world champs France with two penalties from Ronaldo.

TWO MOUTH-WATERING CLASHES

Germany's heart-stopping draw means they will face England for a place in the quarterfinals. The two met each other in the semifinals of Euro 1996

In one of the other final round clashes, Spain finally put aside their profligacy to score five past sorry Slovakia. Their reward? A Croatia meeting

16 CLASHES
First of the last 16 clashes, on Saturday, sees Wales play Denmark

THREE
Out of the five goals Ronaldo has scored this edition, three have been penalties

PM sets tone to bridge J&K gulf

Calls for physical and emotional outreach; all 14 leaders seek restoration of statehood

SANA SHAKIL AND MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday said he was working towards removing "Dilli ki duri and Dil ki duri" (distance between between J&K and Delhi and distance between hearts), in a meeting he chaired with 14 leaders of eight parties from the state.

"Our priority is to strengthen grassroots democracy in J&K. Delimitation has to happen at a quick pace so that polls can happen and J&K gets an elected government that gives strength to J&K's development trajectory," the Prime Minister tweeted after the talks at his residence, which lasted over three hours. The meeting came nearly two years after Article 370 was hollowed out and J&K was broken up into two Union Territories.

Restoration of statehood, holding the delimitation process, conducting Assembly elections to restore democracy, release of political detainees, rehabilitation of Kashmiri Pandits in J&K, ceasefire agreement with Pakistan, Article 370 and protection of land rights were among the key issues that came up for discussion.

While Modi heard all political leaders individually and expressed the Central government's willingness to fulfil most demands raised by them, he was silent when Article 370 was raised by National Conference leaders Farooq and Omar Abdullah, PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti and CPM leader Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami, sources said.

The eight parties that were represented included the National Conference, the PDP, the BJP and the Congress. Union Home Minister Amit Shah, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval and Lt Governor Manoj Sinha participated.

Restoration of statehood was raised by all 14 leaders. Shah said the government is committed to restoring it, but that would happen after the delimitation process and holding of elections is over. Modi sought cooperation from all parties, irrespective of political differences, to expedite the process.

After the talks, Farooq Abdullah emphasised on the importance of building trust in J&K, saying that restoration of full statehood will be the first trust-building exercise from New Delhi's side. His son Omar said the PM was told about their opposition to what was done on August 5, 2019, when the decision to revoke J&K's special status and bifurcate the state into two Union Territories was announced in Parliament. He added that it was the duty of the Centre to restore the broken trust of the people and said delimitation is not necessary. P10

Article 370 abrogated immorally, says Mufti

PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti said she told the PM that the people of J&K do not accept the manner in which Article 370 was abrogated "unconstitutionally, illegally and immorally"

Am happy to learn that the dialogue between the Union government and leaders of J&K went well, and there was a frank exchange of ideas on a number of issues including restoration of statehood and assembly polls. The people of J&K deserve peace, progress and democracy.

No coercive action against Twitter India MD: K'taka HC

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court, in an interim order on Thursday, restrained the Uttar Pradesh police from taking any coercive action against Twitter India's Managing Director Manish Maheshwari on a notice issued to him over a viral video that had taken a communal twist.

However, the court said if the police want to question him or require him for investigation, they may do so virtually.

Justice G Narendar passed the interim order after hearing a petition filed by Maheshwari, a resident of Whitefield in Bengaluru, while adjourning the matter to June 29.

The Loni Border Police in UP had registered an FIR against Twitter Inc and TCIPL (accused No. 8 & 9) on June 15 under Sections 153, 153-A, 295-A, 505, read with 120-B and 34, of the Indian Penal Code.

The video, posted on Twitter, showed an elderly man belonging to a minority community being assaulted in Ghaziabad, allegedly to incite communal tensions.

Maheshwari moved the Karnataka High Court challenging the notice issued by the UP police under Section 41-A of the Criminal Procedure Code, subsequent to the summons issued to him in connection with the FIR.

Maheshwari contended that he is neither the Managing Director of Twitter India Communications Pvt Ltd (TCIPL) nor a board member of TCIPL within the ambit of the Companies Act.

CBI files FIR against 18 former cops in ISRO case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'puram

THE CBI team probing the conspiracy behind the 1994 ISRO espionage case has filed an FIR in the Thiruvananthapuram Chief Judicial Magistrate Court listing 18 retired state police officers and Intelligence Bureau sleuths as accused. The CBI had initiated the probe on the instruction of the Supreme Court.

It perused the Justice D K Jain report to reach a conclusion that the case ought to be investigated by the premier agency to unearth if there was any conspiracy to frame former ISRO scientist Nambi Narayanan and others.

In the FIR filed by the Delhi unit, former state Special Branch inspector S Vijayan and then Pettah station sub-inspector Thampi S Durgadutt have been listed the first and second accused, respectively.

Now, link your passport number to vax certificate

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

YOU can now link your passport number to your Covid vaccination certificate through the CoWIN portal for hassle-free travel abroad.

Login to http://cowin.gov.in, select Raise a Issue and then select the passport option. Next select the person from the drop down menu, enter the passport number and submit. The app will send you an updated vaccination certificate carrying the passport number.

The app also allows for one-time name change to ensure that the name on the vaccine certificate and that on the passport is identical. But entering passport number and requesting name change can only be done once, "so please ensure there are no mistakes in entering the details," the Aarogya Setu app tweeted.

Earlier this month, the Centre had announced new guidelines for Covid-19 vaccination, stating that those travelling abroad for education, employment or as part of the contingent for the Tokyo Olympics, will have to get their vaccination certificates linked to their passport. India intends to share its experience with CoWIN globally.

PM to lay foundation for suburban rail in 3 months

CM takes inspection spl train from Cantonment to Heelalige stn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister BS Yediyurappa on Thursday said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi would lay the foundation stone for the Bengaluru Suburban Rail project within the next three months.

Briefing newspersons after travelling by an inspection special train from Bengaluru Cantonment station to Heelalige station to inspect two doubling projects and the suburban rail project, Yediyurappa said the Centre had given the green signal for external borrowings to the tune of ₹7,400 crore for the ₹15,767-crore project. It runs to 148 kms and covers four corridors.

The projects are being implemented by K-RIDE (Karnataka Rail Infrastructure Development Enterprises), a joint venture between the State and the Centre.

Both will share 20 percent each of the project cost and the remaining 60 per cent would be arranged through borrowings. Infrastructure Development Department Additional Chief Secretary Kapil Mohan, who was present at the inspection said, "The proposal for the borrowings was made by K-RIDE, State government and the Railway Ministry."

Yediyurappa reiterated that the Baiyappanahalli to Chikkabanavar corridor and the Heelalige to Rajankunte corridors would be taken up first for implementation in the suburban project.

Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, Revenue Minister R Ashok, accompined by other officials arrive at Cantonment Station to inspect the progress of Bengaluru suburban railway project and Railway doubling project | EXPRESS

The doubling projects between Baiyappanahalli and Hosur (48 km) as well as Yesvantpur and Channasandra (22 km) would be completed by December 2023, the CM said, adding, "The single line existing between the two lines was a constraint for running more trains from Bengaluru to its outskirts." For the Baiyappanahalli doubling, which costs ₹499 crore, the state will bear ₹250 crore. It had released ₹65 crore earlier, he added. The Yesvantpur douling project costs ₹315 crore, of which the State would bear ₹157 crore, he said. A sum of ₹35 crore has already been released.

Earlier, during the train journey, Amit Garg, Managing Director D, K-RIDE, briefed the chief minister on the proposed extensions for the Suburban Rail Project in the next phase — Kengeri-Ramanagaram; Chikkabanavar-Tumukuru; Rajanakunte-Doddaballapur; Whitefield-Bangarpet & Devanahalli-Chikkaballapur.

Lauding the special trains being run for farmers from the State (Kisan Rail) the CM said it helps their produce reach the Delhi market. Farmers gain a sum of Rs 24 lakh in each trip, he added.

Revenue Minister R Ashok, Divisional Railway Manager, Bengaluru, Ashok Kumar Verma were also present.

Axing trees: 20 more days to have your say

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CITIZENS, conservationists and experts who are keen to put forth their suggestions or objections to the Karnataka Forest Department and minor irrigation department, regarding the chopping down of 6,316 trees at Singanayakanahalli lake site, now have 20 more days to do so.

According to a notification issued by the forest department, the time to file objections was ten days earlier and had come to an end on Thursday. Owing to the pandemic and people's inability to visit the site to assess the ground situation, citizens, NGOs, conservationists and activists approached the forest department on Thursday and submitted a memorandum demanding more time.

Accepting the request, Principal Chief Conservator of Forests, Sanjai Mohan, directed Chief Conservator of Forests, Bengaluru Urban B Venkatesh, to extend the time by 20 days. Following this, the extension was immediately issued.

Citizens said they now have the time to visit the site and assess the ground situation, before giving valid reasons for or against the proposal.

As per the notification, the minor irrigation department has proposed to axe down all the trees near the lake and its catchment area to desilt it and increase its depth and connect it to the other 25 water bodies under the Hebbal- Nagawara Lake project. Conservationists and activists against the project have received support from Greta Thunberg and actress-turned-politician Ramya. The activists have also started an online petition against the axing of trees and are collecting data to file a petition in the high court.

An official from the forest department said the trees will not be axed soon after the notification ends. "The objections and suggestions will be sent to the minor irrigation department and to the tree officer of Bengaluru and high court-constituted expert committee. Objections and suggestions from minor irrigation department will also be obtained and sent to the tree officer and the expert committee, after which the final decision will be taken." he said.

Injured biker seeks ban on manja

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A motorist was severely injured after a manja, which fell down, slit his throat was on his way from a bank in Adugodi on Wednesday.

He held his hand against the thread and injured two of his fingers. He was hospitalised and the video of his treatment went viral on social media. However, no police case has been registered in this regard.

The injured, who claims to be an employee of a private firm, said in the video, "I was wearing a helmet. The manja got wrapped around my neck and I tried to pull it out, injuring my fingers." The government and BBMP officials need to ban manja since it can kill birds and be dangerous for humans too, he appealed in the video.

Speaking to TNIE, a senior police officer said they weren't aware of the incident and are still confused if the traffic police should file a case or law and order. BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said there is already a ban on the usage of manja and there are rules related to to it also. "We will take action against the buyer and the seller. The matter will be investigated," he added.

The biker requested to ban manja as it poses a threat to birds and humans alike

Jumbo found dead in BNP, officials say it's cardiac arrest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A female elephant was found dead in Ragihalli range of Bannerghatta National Park a couple of days ago. Forest officials said that the pachyderm was 35-40 years old and died due to natural causes.

"After conducting a post mortem, we found that the jumbo died due to cardiac arrest. A sharp branch had also pierced through her digestive system. The samples have also been sent for forensic examination," said BNP Deputy Conservator of Forests, BNN Murthy.

The official added that since there was heavy downpour a couple of days ago, the elephant could have slipped down the hillock and suffered a cardiac arrest. There were no external injury marks on her body and a group of wild dogs had also eaten a portion of her trunk.

Laying rumours of man-animal conflict to rest, he said that the incident happened inside the forest patch and not in the periphery. Due to the impact of the slip and fall, two to three trees were also uprooted.

He also added that the death was not because of lack of food or water, because partially digested food was found in the elephant's stomach.

The national park houses a healthy population of pachyderms. The forest department officials stated that there have been no cases of man-animal conflict as rails have been erected and elephant-proof trenches have been dug.

Hampi opens for tourists after 2 months

AMIT S UPADHYE @Hubballi

AFTER a gap of two months, the world heritage site Hampi opened its doors to tourists from Thursday. For the first time in many weeks the tourists were able to get a glimpse of famous monuments such as Vijaya Vittala Temple complex and Kamal Mahal.

The Archaeological Survey Of India and Hampi World Heritage Area Management Autyhrority together have chalked out safety plans for the visiting tourists. Firstly it's now been made mandatory for the tourists to carry a government issued identity card with them.

This apart, a health check up van will be stationed at Hampi for the benefit of the visitors. The health clinic will also have Covid19 testing facility and an ambulance attached to it in case of any emergency.

"During the unlock period similar arrangements were made. But this time we have instructed the teams to register the visitors upon arrival. The central ASI had announced the opening of monuments last week itself. But due to the lockdown in some parts of the state made us postpone the opening of Hampi monuments for the tourists.," said a senior official from the HAWAMA.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

25th June: Until recently scientists believed that space was a vacuum, empty of all material. Now they have discovered that this is impossible, and that everything has to be made of something! Actually, they have taken us back to what astrologers always knew – that everything in the universe is intimately linked to everything else, both physically and psychically.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Your travel stars are superb though, as ever, when the stars are so intense a certain amount of self-control is necessary. By this, I mean that you should take responsibility for guaranteeing that all instructions and directions are crystal clear.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Sometimes the stars say one thing but I must advise you to do another. For example, this week and next the stars urge you to settle old scores. But I must question whether in fact you might not be better off putting the past behind you in a spirit of reconciliation?

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Reach out and try to see what close partners are really feeling and thinking. Make a genuine effort to understand their hopes and fears and you'll do your relationships, and hence your own interests, no end of good. At home there are now excellent opportunities for a party and for extra luxury.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Don't worry so much. The tendency to brood is a typical Cancerian complaint but you need to look on the bright side. I'm mentioning this because the current awkward lunar alignments may make you feel rather run-down. What's the solution? Do what you enjoy most!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Confusion is in the air. You must give loved ones the chance to express their grievances otherwise you may be caught up in a tangle which prevents you from making the most of your many talents. The fact is that you can only benefit when everyone expects the best.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Today's lunar alignments challenge you to review the very foundations of your existence. On a less profound level, you'll have plenty to get on with at home. Some of you will feel that family responsibilities are taking up too much of your precious time.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Domestic affairs are moving into a confused period when banana skins may abound, yet those of you with active public lives will shortly receive your just rewards. Professionally, you are now entitled to go into battle for your due. For a start, you could be owed an apology.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You'll reach a turning point in your monetary affairs. It seems more likely that it will be minor issues such as routine bills or expenses which demand your attention rather than all those grand questions of long-term prosperity. Your motto today should be 'live in the present'.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Mercury, a planet which cajoles you into making difficult decisions, is now very well placed. This is a sign that, after due and careful consideration, there is an excellent chance that you will sow the seeds for a bright future. Also, criticisms which are made now could be withdrawn within two weeks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It's all mystery and suspicion today, and I imagine that skeletons will be rattling in Capricornian cupboards the length and breadth of the land. Enjoy a spot of peace and quiet if you can. However, those of you facing professional pressures may find that they soak up far too much of your time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
By the end of the year you will come to realise just how protected you really are, and that you alone can play the role demanded of you by relations and partners. In the meantime, be patient. The stars' best advice is to consolidate your many personal gains and achievements.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Your current celestial patterns can only reinforce previous advice to the effect that you must grab whatever public acclaim, attention and rewards you can. Don't hold back at this vital stage. And don't, whatever you do, take close partners for granted.

LEARNING CURVE AMID THE COVID WAVE

For school and college students in the remote villages of Sagar taluk in Shivamogga district – Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa's home turf – studying during the second wave of Covid-19 has become an uphill task, literally. They walk 2-3km and climb a hill at Binchgoodu in order to access mobile network for online classes. When it rains, they are forced to hold up an umbrella in one hand and their phones in the other. That's not all. The path up the hillock is fraught with wild encounters, as they cross paths with snakes and other reptiles. At least 40 students, some of them accompanied by their parents, camp on the hill. "We have been demanding a dedicated mobile tower for almost a decade. It's frustrating because it affects our children's education," says Guru, a local. Villagers say they have complained to MLAs and MPs too, but to no avail | SHRIRAM BN

All college students to be vaxxed in July

Minister says offline classes only after students get first dose, jabs will be given in colleges

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, who is also state Covid Task Force head, on Thursday announced that a vaccination drive will be held in July for students who are over 18 years old.

Responding to a media query, he said offline classes will start once all students get the first vaccine dose. All college students aged above 18 years, teaching staff and non-teaching staff of colleges will be considered as a priority group for vaccination, Narayan added.

Vaccination for these groups would be taken up in July in their respective colleges, as per the guidelines of the Central government. Students can take the vaccine on showing validation letters issued by their institution. The head of the institution and another official will be appointed as nodal officers, Narayan said.

He also clarified that the learning process was continuing online. Attendance is mandatory for online classes too, he said. "The government is cautious about the occurrence of Delta Plus cases, and existing vaccines are effective against this variant of the virus," Narayan added.

Special drive for women

Narayan on Thursday launched a special vaccination drive for women in his constituency of Malleswaram. It was held by the Dr CN Ashwath Narayan Foundation.

More than 1,500 women were vaccinated at Sangolli Rayanna park in Ward 66. Narayan said this is the first time a special drive for women is being conducted.

A LONG BATTLE

In a first, doc diagnosed with black & green fungus

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

A paediatric physiotherapist from Bengaluru, who suffered from Covid-19 in April, is possibly the first patient in Karnataka and India to develop both black fungus (mucormycosis) and green fungus (aspergillosis). The patient, Dr Karthikeyan R, developed pain on his face, intolerable headache and nasal discharge while he was admitted to a hospital in Mysuru. He was later shifted to Bengaluru.

"It did not look like a regular black fungus case as he had greenish brown salt deposits (crystals) in his nose. The fungal culture revealed green fungus. Endoscopy showed puss in his nose and CT and MRI scans detected fungal infection. With an endoscopic surgery through his nose, we drilled the bone and cleared the dead tissue. Anti-fungal medication alone would not have led to cure as black fungus affects blood supply to the tissue and grows on dead tissue. Post-surgery, he was given anti-fungal medication," said Dr Prashanth R Reddy, Chief Consultant, ENT and Endoscopic Skull Base Surgeon, BGS Gleneagles Global Hospital, Bengaluru.

The patient was not a known diabetic, but was diagnosed with it after Covid. During his treatment for coronavirus in Mysuru, he was on steroids. If not treated in time, his condition would have turned fatal. Dr Reddy said that the root cause of fungal infection is necrotising (tissue death) sinusitis (inflammation or swelling of the tissue lining the sinuses) caused by a Covid variant. Fungal infections grow extremely fast as well.

The patient, Dr Karthikeyan, said "After 4-5 days in Mysuru, I showed improvement and was weaned off the ventilator and put on oxygen support. This is when I began to develop pain in the right side of the face and got terrible headache."

BBMP: Aggressive contact tracing to contain Covid-19

ENS @ Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Thursday said Covid-19 patients in home isolation will be closely monitored and also authorities will keep a close watch on primary contacts of patients. This comes in the wake of the state reporting cases of Delta Plus variant.

Speaking to reporters, Gupta said, "The issue of whether to continue with home isolation or not is being discussed by experts and the government. Until they arrive at a decision, we will continue to keep a close watch on those in home isolation." He added that the death rate of those dying in home isolation was less. On the Delta Plus variant, he said that genome sequencing to find more variants will be given importance in the future and aggressive primary contact tracing was being done. On the issue of conducting RT-PCR tests on those coming from Mysuru--- where three more Delta Plus variant cases have been detected--- Gupta said random tests were being conducted.

Take steps to jab teachers before SSLC exam: DCs told

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AFTER private schools alleged that no special provisions were made to vaccinate teachers, Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar on Thursday directed all deputy commissioners to ensure that necessary steps are taken to vaccinate teachers, officials and staff who will be on SSLC examination duty in the third week of July.

In a letter to the district officials, he said the list of teachers, officials and staffers was with the deputy director of public instruction of each district, and instructed them to ensure they got vaccinated before the commencement of the exam on a priority basis. He said that to ensure social distancing is maintained, more than 6,000 exam centres will be created, and thereby more teachers, officials and staffers will be a part of this process.

To ensure that the examination is conducted in a safe environment, it is vital that all involved in the examination process are vaccinated, he said.Despite an earlier request by the education department to Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and other district officials to relieve teachers from Covid duty — as they are needed for academic purposes, including reopening of schools and holding of examinations — teachers in BBMP limits were yet to be relieved. He directed the BBMP Chief Commissioner to relieve teachers who were still on Covid duty so they can be engaged in the SSLC examination process.

In his letter, Kumar said teachers should be immediately relieved from Covid duty as they have to be vaccinated and involved in the pre-examination work, and with the start of academic activities of the coming year. Besides, teachers were also expected to be present for the admissions in schools.

To ensure that social distancing is maintained, more than 6,000 exam centres will be created, and thereby more teachers, officials and staffers will be a part of this year's SSLC examination process

K'taka aims to inoculate all by December-end

We are strengthening health sector at the rural level to tackle the possible third wave of Covid

– Dr K Sudhakar, Health Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

VACCINATION is the only way to keep Covid-19 away, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar has said, adding that the State Government is determined to fully-vaccinate everyone by December. Speaking to reporters after flagging off a special vaccination drive at the State Bar Council on Thursday, Dr Sudhakar said that the government has taken steps to vaccinate 1 lakh advocates and their families. "It is being given on priority to professionals who are in contact with more people... If we want to be mask free, then everyone should be vaccinated at the earliest," he said.

"It is because of the stringent measures of the government that mortality rate has reduced during the second wave though there was a surge in cases than expected. Backlog vacancies of 1,760 medical officers have been filled which were due from the last 25 years. We are strengthening the health sector at district level to tackle the third wave based on the recommendations of the committee headed by Dr Devi Shetty," the minister said.

Some people are spreading rumours about vaccines on social media. People tend to believe such information, he said, urging people to trust only authenticated information from government sources. "As in the case of smallpox, people took many years to trust the vaccine. The Hepatitis-B vaccine took 20 years to arrive in India but we were fast enough to invent the vaccine for Covid-19. We should be proud that it has been invented in our country," he said, adding that foreign vaccines are expensive but PM Narendra Modi is providing the indigenous vaccine free of cost.

UNFOUNDED FEAR

God will save us! Tribals lock their houses and flee to avoid taking jab

PRAJNA GR @ Madikeri

THE fear of developing side-effects and the belief that the tribal God would protect them from Covid-19 made many tribals of Diddalli rehabilitation site at Bydagotta near Kushalnagar lock their doors and flee before the special Covid-19 vaccination drive organised by the health department on Thursday. As a result, only 35 of the 200-odd tribals were inoculated.

Taluk health officer, however, assured that the department will keep trying to get everyone vaccinated at the settlement.

The Diddalli tribes here have been in the limelight for all the wrong reasons since the outbreak of the second wave. The tribals did not cooperate with the health workers and did not give their swab samples for Covid tests claiming that their tribal God would save them from the pandemic. Following this, the health and other departments conducted awareness campaigns at the settlement.

A locked house at Diddalli rehabilitation site | EXPRESS

On Thursday, the authorities set up a vaccination camp at the Bydagotta community hall. However, only 30-odd residents from the settlement turned up to get the jab. When the officials visited the settlement to convince the residents to get vaccinated, they were greeted by locked houses.

"Officials from all the departments have visited the settlement to convince the tribals. But they are not ready to get the jab. On Thursday, the tribal leader, Swami, was among the 30-odd persons who took the vaccine. He is fine now and we have asked him to convince others," said Dr Srinivas, Somwarpet taluk health officer. He added that the department is inoculating the villagers residing near the tribal settlement to erase all their unfounded fears about vaccines.

Vijayendra off to Delhi on hush-hush visit

Low-profile visit sparks speculation; Upper Bhadra Project, phone-tapping are new contentious issues

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

EVEN as the dust is yet to settle on the stormy leadership crisis that hit the Karnataka BJP recently, party vice-president B Y Vijayendra, son of CM B S Yediyurappa, left for New Delhi on Wednesday night, unannounced, on a regular flight. That he chose to travel low profile, has caused a fresh buzz in the BJP about the reason behind his visit to the capital.

State incharge general secretary Arun Singh and co-incharge D K Aruna had visited Karnataka from June 16 to 18, and held one-on-one meetings with legislators, including dissidents. The team had sent reports to the Central leadership, which is yet to take any action.

Aggrieved minister C P Yogeshwara, who had visited Delhi with MLA Arvind Bellad, triggering the recent crisis, has called for a media interaction in his chamber on Friday. There were allegations against the leadership, and a complaint of corruption in the Upper Bhadra Project – under the water resources department controlled by CM -- made by BJP MLC Adagur Vishwanath.

Vishwanath told TNIE that he had informed Arun Singh on the morning of June 17, after requesting co-incharge D K Aruna to leave the room, to write down his complaint about corruption and family interference.

Bellad had earlier complained to the central leadership about the sale of land to JSW Group at a throwaway price. The central leadership had prevailed on Yediyurappa to stop the sale of 3,667 acres, after Bellad's complaint, but it was later clarified by the government as a cabinet decision.

There was also a complaint of phone-tapping, with BJP dissidents claiming that their phones were compromised. One dissident leader told TNIE that he prefers to use a landline whenever possible.

PEACE PROCESS

Deve Gowda hails PM's J&K initiative

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER Prime Minister H D Deve Gowda on Thursday termed PM Narendra Modi's initiative to hold talks with leaders of all parties from Jammu and Kashmir as a major achievement. The PM met the leaders to discuss restoration of statehood and holding of elections.

These are two major issues and leaders of all parties from Jammu and Kashmir collectively took a decision on them, the former PM said. "It is a major achievement by Modi. For me, it is one of the happiest moments as the people of Jammu and Kashmir deserve peace, progress and democracy," Gowda told TNIE. Earlier, taking to social media, Gowda stated that he was happy to learn that the dialogue between the Centre and leaders of J&K went off well, and there was a frank exchange of ideas on a number of issues, including restoration of statehood and assembly polls.

During his tenure as PM, Gowda had visited J&K several times and taken a number of initiatives to restore peace. "We had conducted elections which were not held for 10 years and the National Conference had got the absolute majority at that time," Gowda recalled.

"Holding free and fair elections, creating jobs, waiving loans pending for over 10 years and infrastructure development was my agenda...," the former PM added.

Govt announces relief package for hospitality sector

ENS @ Bengaluru

TOURISM Minister C P Yogeshwar announced a rehabilitation and relief package for those in the tourism fraternity on Thursday.

The members of Karnataka Tourism Society had submitted a memorandum to the government seeking relief and rehabilitation packages as the sector had taken a severe beating during the lockdown.

Earlier, the minister had announced that a compensation of Rs 5,000 will be given to all registered guides in the state. The amount will be directly transferred to their bank accounts. On Thursday, Yogeshwar extended assistance and said that other financial help will also be given.

In the orders issued, the minister announced that hotels and resorts will not have to pay electricity bills for April and May. Also, 50 per cent concession was being given on the annual tax filing. Hotels and resorts can pay 50 per cent of the excise and additional taxes now and the remaining by December 31.

Siddu tells supporters to stop CM talk

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru/ Mysuru

Even as Congress leaders tried to refocus their attention on Covid, the leadership issue continued to haunt the party, with supporters of various leaders pitching for their leaders and putting up a show of support.

On Thursday, Opposition leader Siddaramaiah attempted to stem acrimony by issuing a statement, asking party legislators to desist from making any statements of him becoming chief minister. He joins KPCC President D K Shivakumar in distancing himself from the CM's post, besides a few other leaders.

It comes on the heels of Hebbal MLA Byrathi Suresh stating on Wednesday that "Siddaramaiah is chief minister, not for now but forever". He, along with MLAs Raghavendra Hitnal, Zameer Ahmed Khan, Bhima Naik, S Ramappa, R Akhanda Srinivas Murthy and J N Ganesh, have rooted for Siddaramaiah as next CM. In this melee, former Deputy CM G Parameshwara also hinted that he is not out of the race, and would speak on the occasion. Parameshwara called on JSS seer Sri Shivarthri Deshikendra Swami and held closed door talks, sparking speculation.

KSE RIDICULES DEBATE ON CONG CM TALK

Shivamogga: BJP leader and district minister K S Eshwarappa ridiculed Congress leaders' debate over the next Congress CM's name as "searching for a black cat in a dark room". He said the Congress is talking about a CM two years before the next election. "BJP will again come to power in the next elections. Some Congress leaders say that Siddaramaiah will be the next CM. The post of CM is not anybody's to give away. People have discarded Congress even in the last bypolls," he alleged. On Congress' allegations about Shivamogga airport in the shape of a lotus, he said, "Lotus is a symbol of development. Lotus symbolically represents Goddess Lakshmi, which is in Indian culture."

He said that many party workers call him the "future CM". "I have appealed to them not to do that, and will speak when the time comes," he said. The debate on who will be the next chief minister is unwarranted, especially as elections are two years away. Party leaders and workers should win a majority, he added. On Thursday, Parameshwara's supporters were heard chanting that he would become CM.

On Wednesday, working president Ramalinga Reddy had embarrassedly tried to distance himself from social media posts by his supporters, saying he would be chief minister.

MLA Priyank M Kharge was also forced to dismiss talk of being the chief ministerial face in the next elections, saying it was "some people's fantasy" and that elections would be fought under a collective leadership.

On rousing support for Siddaramaiah, Kharge said it could be their personal view. "There is a procedure for these things. The Congress Legislative Party will be formed after the 2023 elections. The question of who becomes chief minister arises only after the party gets a majority. The party cannot be the sacrificial lamb," Kharge said.

Shivakumar had met party leaders Rahul Gandhi and R S Surjewala in New Delhi, and discussed Covid management and the party's work with Covid victims and their families. Shivakumar is now taking up the undercounting of Covid deaths, and has demanded a death audit. The Karnataka Congress on Thursday launched a statewide outreach campaign to provide relief to those working on the frontlines, but without recognition. "This campaign will help us disseminate information on Covid and post-Covid care, and identify demands of families. Local leaders will visit households of affected families," he said. The outreach will cover 1 crore households in Karnataka in 30 days.

Parameshwara lashed out at the BJP for hijacking the vaccination drive, and projecting it "as if the party has manufactured the vaccine and distributed it to the people. We are not against BJP workers paying from their pockets to provide free vaccines, but against taking free publicity..."

Sa Ra plans to move privilege motion against Sindhuri

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

TAKING offence at allegations against him by IAS officer Rohini Sindhuri, KR Nagar MLA Sa Ra Mahesh has decided to move a privilege motion against her, and written to the assembly Speaker. The former minister is known to be a bitter critic of former Deputy Commissioner Rohini Sindhuri, who had accused him of encroaching a 'Rajakaluve' and gomala land in Mysuru to construct a choultry. Following these allegations, revenue officials and the regional commissioner had conducted a probe and given him a clean chit.

Irked by the "baseless allegations" by Sindhuri and for "giving media statements without any proof", the three-time MLA has written to the Speaker to move a privilege committee for violating civil service rules. He also accused her of defaming him and his family members by "alleging that I was planning to construct a resort near a lake in the buffer zone". Mahesh said that Sindhuri had made baseless charges against him for bringing to light misuse of funds to construct a swimming pool in the official DC's residence, besides other violations.

Ex-corporator Rekha Kadiresh hacked to death

As police try to establish motive, family alleges there was threat to her life following husband's murder in 2018

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TWO-time former BBMP councillor from BJP, Rekha Kadiresh, who had represented Chalavadipalya ward, was hacked to death outside her office in Flower Garden area under Cottonpet police limits on Thursday morning.

The police have zeroed in on two suspects, including a person who was a gunman of her slain husband. Rekha's husband Kadiresh, a former corporator himself from the same ward, was hacked to death on February 7, 2018.

According to the police, the incident occurred around 10.30 am when Rekha, aged around 45 years, was distributing food packets to people outside her office. Two persons approached her on the pretext of talking to her, pulled out lethal weapons and hacked her in full public view before fleeing.

"Another person, who was with Rekha, also allegedly helped the assailants in the attack. The killers first stabbed her in the neck and, when she tried to escape and save herself, chased and fatally hacked her. The public ran helter-skelter as soon as the assailants started attacking Rekha, while some managed to put her in an autorickshaw and rushed her to a hospital, but she died en route," a police officer said.

The police called it a 'well-planned murder' as the assailants had turned the direction of the CCTV cameras, installed nearby, away from its focus on the spot to avoid being captured on camera.

"Preliminary probe has established that two persons, identified as Peter and Surya, are behind the murder. Peter was the gunman of Rekha's husband Kadiresh, while Surya is a local resident. An initial probe has ruled out political motive behind the killing, but we are looking into all possible angles including personal, professional, rivalry and financial dispute that might have led to the killing," the officer said. Rekha's family members alleged that there was a threat to her life as well as that of her two children after Kadiresh's murder, and hence the children were not being sent out of the house.

Reacting to the incident, Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa said he had spoken to Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant and asked him to take stringent action against the killers, while expressing confidence that the accused will be nabbed within 24 hours. Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai too said he has instructed the police commissioner to conduct a detailed investigation.

Cops seek body warrant on man who injected 'poison' into friend's arm

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Chamarajapet police have sought a body warrant to gain custody of a habitual offender, who had allegedly injected a poisonous substance into his 17-year-old friend's arm, which had to be amputated.

The mother of the boy had approached Chamarajapet police, demanding legal action against Manoj alias Huva (21), who is said to be a volleyball coach, and is currently lodged in Central Prison, Parappana Agrahara, after he was held in a bike theft case.

A senior police officer said that based on a complaint, a body warrant on Manoj has been sought, and he will be interrogated on Friday regarding the case. An FIR has been registered under Section 328 (causing hurt by means of poison with intent to commit offence).

The mother claimed that her son, a Class 10 dropout, had attended Manoj's birthday party on May 3. A few days later, his right elbow appeared to be swollen. "We took him to Sanjay Gandhi Hospital, where the doctors said the arm would have to be amputated to remove the poisonous substance, and my son revealed that Manoj had dissolved unidentified tablets in water and injected the solution into his arm, during the party," she said.

"We have verified the medical reports, and further action will be taken against the accused," the officer added.

Provide details on virtual hearing facility: HC to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Thursday sought response from the State Government on providing video conference hearing facility to quasi-judicial authorities across the state.

The court also asked the government to provide details on whether video conference hearing facility has already been provided to those authorities.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj passed the order during the hearing of a suo moto PIL initiated to address issues arising out of the pandemic.

During the hearing, the court's attention was drawn to the non-functioning of quasi judicial authorities and pending of important cases before them, due to the lockdown.

Noting that the cases can be heard by the quasi judicial authorities if video conference hearing facility is provided, the court asked the government to submit response on providing it.

CRIME PATROL

Murder accused attacks cop, shot at

Bengaluru: Govindapura police on Thursday opened fire at a murder suspect, after he allegedly attacked a police constable at the time of his arrest. The incident took place in HBR Layout. The accused, identified as Mohammed Salim (28), and his associates were wanted for the murder of one Kareem Ali (33). Based on a tipoff, a police team tracked him down. When a constable tried to arrest Salim, the latter attacked him with a knife and tried to escape. When he didn't surrender after repeated warnings, an SI fired at Salim's left leg. Police are now looking for Salim's associates.

2 foreigners held for overstaying, cheating

Bengaluru: The CCB has arrested two Cameroonians who were allegedly overstaying in the city and duping people by exchanging fake US dollar bills. Police said they received information that two foreign nationals, with no valid visa, were staying at a five-star hotel in Subramanyanagar police station limits. The duo were arrested. It was found that while one of them had no passport, the other's visa expired in May. "When their room was searched, a bag full of fake US dollar notes was found. They admitted that they were cheating people by exchanging the fake notes with Indian rupees," police said.

3 held trying to sell narcotic substances

Bengaluru: The Sriramapura police have arrested three habitual offenders and seized 800 grams of charas and 200 grams of ganja oil. They been identified as Prashanth alias Motte (24), John alias Kariya (32), and Sundar alias Kutti alias Goru (32). The accused were nabbed when they were trying to sell the narcotic substances near Aiyappa Swamy temple in Sriramapura. They reportedly revealed that the contraband was given to them to be sold by Narayana and Harish alias Choori about two months ago.

The Karnataka High Court on Thursday sought response from the State Government on providing video conference hearing facility to quasi judicial authorities across the state

AFTER SC WARNING

ANDHRA GOVT CANCELS EXAMS FOR CLASS 12

'Not possible to complete process by July 31'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Vijayawada

HOURS after the Supreme Court made it clear that it would not allow the Andhra Pradesh government to conduct Class XII examination unless it is convinced and also issued orders for all the States to declare internal assessment results of intermediate second year examination by July 31, education minister Audimulapu Suresh announced cancellation of both SSC and Intermediate examinations in the State. A high power committee would be constituted to assess the results of intermediate second year students, he said.

"We have decided to cancel the intermediate examinations following the Supreme Court instructions to declare the internal assessment of class 12 examination by July 31," Suresh said adding the SSC examinations too stand cancelled.

Briefing media Thursday evening, Suresh said the process of conduct of examinations, evaluation of the papers and announcement of results would take a minimum of 40 days. Apart from it, we have to announce the schedule of examinations atleast 15 days before the examination dates. "All this would take more than 45 days and it would not be possible to complete the entire process of examinations by July 31 as directed by the Supreme Court," Suresh said.

The minister said the Supreme Court has also issued instructions to the University Grants Commission (UGC) to ensure that the admission process by colleges and institutions should be taken up only after the CBSE, ISCE and State Boards complete the examination process. "To ensure that our students do not face difficulty in getting admissions in to degree courses, we have taken the decision to cancel examinations," he said.

> We have decided to cancel the intermediate examinations following the Supreme Court instructions to declare the internal assessment of class 12 by July 31
> Audimulapu Suresh, education minister

Earlier in the day, the Supreme Court told the Andhra Pradesh State government that it is not convinced with the precautionary measures suggested by it for holding Class XII Board exams and said unless satisfied that there will be no fatality due to COVID, it will not allow them to hold examinations.

Rajnath reviews Project Seabird work

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S @Karwar

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh, accompanied by Chief of Naval Staff Admiral Karambir Singh, on Thursday reviewed the ongoing works at the Project Seabird Phase II-A site at the Karwar Naval Base, the country's largest naval infrastructure project which aims at providing fleet support and maintenance of warships.

The expanded naval complex will be able to support several major warships and at least 30 vessels, submarines and yard crafts. A state-of-the-art Naval Air Base and maintenance section is also said to be the part of the Phase II-A project, which is an extension of the Naval base totally spread across over 11,000 acres. The project was delayed for some time as the land earmarked for it was forest land and was cleared after the visit of former Defence Minister Nirmala Sitaraman.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh with Navy Chief Admiral Karambir Singh and Vice Admiral R Hari Kumar at Karwar Naval base

The Phase II-A project, located on hilly terrain along the coast, involves several technical and environmental challenges. A significant part of the work will be carried out by reclaiming a part of the sea.

Rajnath Singh, who was on his first visit, had a hectic schedule with several field visits and briefings regarding the progress of works. He visited the Ship Lift tower, which, according to naval sources, is a new concept where an entire ship will be lifted to the jetty.

The Raksha Mantri, accompanied by Admiral Karambir Singh, also did an aerial survey of the Naval area before he landed at the Naval base. On arrival, he was received by Vice Admiral R Hari Kumar, Flag Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Western Naval Command, and Rear Admiral Mahesh Singh, Flag Officer Commanding, Karnataka Naval Area. He also interacted with the Naval staff and others.

K'taka-Maha to share water in agreement soon

ENS @Belagavi

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa's recent meeting with the representatives of Maharashtra government is paying rich dividends.

In a major breakthrough in the dispute over sharing water between the two neighbouring states, Deputy Chief Minister Govind Karjol on Wednesday announced in Chikkodi that "Karnataka-Maharashtra governments have given in-principle approval to reach an agreement over exchanging four TMC of water every year."

Karjol said, "Following the discussions, it had been mutually agreed that four tmc of water will be released from Koyna dam of Maharashtra to Karnataka during summer and the same amount of water to be released by Karnataka to Jatt taluk, Maharashtra."

Poll promises will be fulfilled: TN CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

CHIEF Minister MK Stalin on Thursday said the State government will establish mega industries at Cheyyar and Tindivanam with job opportunities for 22,000 persons, and open post-Covid clinics in all medical college hospitals across the State run by a team of specialist doctors.

Stating that all of the DMK's electoral promises would be fulfilled in due course, Stalin said, "We have already announced that industrial units which offer huge employment opportunities for the educated youth would be set up in northern Tamil Nadu. In the first phase, big units that would provide jobs would be established at Cheyyar and Tindivanam. While the Cheyyar unit would provide jobs for 12,000 persons, the Tindivanam unit would provide jobs for another 10,000."

Replying to the discussion on motion of thanks to the Governor's address to the 16th Legislative Assembly, Stalin said the cases filed against media, farmers who protested the three farm laws of the Union government, those who protested the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), and those who protested methane extraction, neutrino project, Kudankulam atomic power plant and Chennai-Salem Greenfield Expressway would be withdrawn. He said that all cases registered in an unfair manner during the previous AIADMK regime were being scrutinised by the law department. He indicated that cases relating to all agitations which did not give room for violence would be withdrawn.

Farmers to stage protests across state tomorrow

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FARMERS will stage protests on June 26 across Karnataka to support the ongoing farmers' protest against the farm laws near New Delhi.

Convenor of Samyukta Horata (Karnataka) G C Bayyareddy said they will hold a demonstration to mark the completion of seven months of the agitation near the national capital, following all Covid protocols. In Bengaluru, farmers will stage a protest at Maurya Circle and a small delegation of farmers is likely to meet the Governor to submit a memorandum addressed to the President.

Samyukta Kisan Morcha, that is protesting against the three farm laws, has called for protests outside Raj Bhavan on June 26 to "save agriculture and democracy." Farmers' organisations in Karnataka had earlier held several protests in support of the ongoing farmers' agitation.

OPPN PICKS ON SEED SHORTAGE, MINISTER SAYS CROPPING PATTERN CHANGED

ANUSHA RAVI @ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING instances of farmers alleging shortage of seeds for the Kharif sowing season, Agriculture Minister B C Patil reiterated that the state is not facing shortage of seeds or fertilisers.

Patil told TNIE that the shortage being reported in some districts is largely of soybean seeds, owing to farmers changing crop patterns. Incidents of violence and protests by farmers in Ballari and Aurad prompted the Congress to raise the matter.

On Thursday, Chittapur MLA Priyank Kharge warned the government of tough times if seed shortage is not addressed. "The BJP government claims to be pro-farmer, but their actions and policies suggest otherwise. There is an extreme shortage of seeds in the state. The first rains have come in, farmers are ready to sow, but no seeds. Tough times ahead if @CMofKarnataka doesn't swing into action," Kharge tweeted.

While farmer leaders like Kuruboor Shantakumar insisted there was a shortage of fertilisers like Di-ammonium Phosphate (DAP) and seeds like soybean, cotton and chilli, Patil said the shortage of soybean seeds was due to increased demand. "The government does not supply chilli seeds. Farmers buy them from a private company. We have spoken to the company to enhance supply. There is no shortage of cotton seeds anywhere, but soybean shortage has been reported because farmers have changed cropping pattern," he insisted.

Patil added that compared to 1.28 lakh quintals of soybean seeds distributed last year, 1.67 lakh quintals were distributed this year. "We have increased it by about 40,000 quintals. We have to distribute within the subsidy amount of Rs 180 crore," he said.

FIELD DATA

In Kharif 2020, 3.97 lakh quintal seeds were distributed to 15.51 lakh farmers

This season, 2,68,121 quintals distributed (till Thursday)

Demand for DAP between April and June this year estimated at 2,61,590 tonne; as of June 24, 1,63,033 tonnes distributed across state; 1,01,640 tonnes in stock

Overall demand for fertilisers was 12,77,815 tonnes, of which 9,77,078 tonnes was distributed; 11,33,470 tonnes in stock

'Notice issued despite reply to summons'

MANISH Maheshwari claimed that he is merely the revenue head, in charge of advertising and sales, but the designation of Managing Director was given as he is a senior employee of the company.

Senior Counsel C V Nagesh, representing Maheshwari, argued that the latter had neither uploaded the alleged video nor had he any control over the alleged content uploaded on the company platform of which the petitioner is an employee. Although Maheshwari had replied to the police summons of June 17, a notice was issued to him, he argued.

He further argued that the petitioner, in his reply to the UP police, had clarified that neither TCIPL nor its employees have any control over the services offered by Twitter Inc., a company incorporated in the USA. Therefore, the petitioner is not the relevant person to provide any details of the case under investigation. Despite this, if the investigation agency requires the petitioner's presence, he will be available over video conference as he is residing in Bengaluru and not in the jurisdiction of the Loni Border Police.

Nagesh told the court that the police had turned down Maheshwari's request and issued a notice on June 21 under Section 41-A of the Criminal Procedures Code (CrPC), putting him virtually in the shoes of the accused, to appear before them at 10.30 am on June 24. The police had cautioned Maheshwari that his absence will be considered as resistance to the procedure established by law and an attempt to derail the investigation, and further action will be taken accordingly. Neither Section 160 nor Section 41-A of CrPC empower the police to issue notice to the petitioner, who is a resident of Bengaluru, Nagesh argued.

However, advocate P Prasanna Kumar, representing the UP police, justified the action. He said the petition was not maintainable and the Karnataka High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain it as the FIR was registered in Uttar Pradesh.

ISRO spy case had created political storm in Kerala

THE the city police commissioner V R Rajeevan, former DGP Sibi Mathews, former IB deputy director R B Sreekumar and former DySP K K Joshua are the other prominent names featured in the list of accused. Sibi had then headed the special team to probe the sensational case that began with the arrest of two Maldivian women, who were accused of indulging in honey-trapping to leak sensitive information regarding India's space projects to foreign agencies.

The FIR listed 10 charges against the accused, including Indian Penal Code sections pertaining to criminal conspiracy, fabrication of evidence, kidnapping, torture, etc. The case surfaced in 1994 when Narayanan was arrested on charges of espionage along with another senior official of ISRO, two Maldivian women and a businessman.

The case had created a political storm in Kerala when the group war in the Congress was at its peak. Later, then chief minister K Karunakaran had to quit office in 1995 after reports came out that he was protecting his close aide and senior police officer Raman Srivastava, who was then an inspector-general. Srivastava then went on to become the state police chief and later police advisor to Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan.

The CBI in 1996 found that the charges against Narayanan were phoney following which the case against him was dropped.

Aisha gets nod to leave L'dweep

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

LAKSHADWEEP-BASED filmmaker Aisha Sultana has said that though the sedition case against her was registered based on a remark during a media discussion, the allegations of Pakistan connection raised by the BJP complicated it. She was interrogated by the island police for the third time on Thursday.

"The police had asked me about the circumstances that led to the controversial remark. But the social media campaign by the BJP has made the case complicated. The police checked my phone details, WhatsApp calls and bank details and asked whether I had any foreign connection. The officers said all these were necessitated as the BJP leaders campaigned that my comments were being celebrated in Pakistan," Aisha told TNIE.

Meanwhile, the Lakshadweep police gave Aisha the permission to leave the island. She said her seven-day mandatory quarantine will end on Friday and she will leave for Kochi on Saturday.

PUTTING AN END TO DOWRY MENACE IN KERALA SOCIETY

The death of 23-year-old Vismaya Nair has rekindled the debate on the reprehensible dowry system prevalent in Kerala society. The collective moral outrage on display currently in the state is a seasonal phenomenon at best. There was a similar outrage in May last year when 25-year-old Uthra died after her husband got her bitten by a snake. In the last 13 years, 212 women have lost their lives owing to dowry harassment in Kerala. The Kerala Assembly at present has four legislators who were accused of domestic violence and none faced prosecution as the cases were settled out of court. So, it's unlikely Vismaya's death will change anything unless the government takes sincere and proactive steps to deal with the dowry menace, and communities wake up to the barbarity of the social evil they have preserved and nurtured for generations.

Sixty years have passed since Parliament enacted the Dowry Prohibition Act. Following criticism that it has failed to provide adequate protection for women, the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act was enacted in 2005. Armed with these laws and corresponding sections in the Indian Penal Code, police and agencies like women's commissions can tackle the issue of dowry and domestic violence. Unfortunately, police and commissions prefer to play mediators, as if saving the institution of marriage is more important than saving lives and punishing the culprits. Even in the case of Vismaya, a police complaint was withdrawn following negotiation initiated by senior officers.

The government must put in place an effective system to ensure that no life is lost due to the dowry menace. Let the first step be weeding out the dowry practice among government employees. As suggested by former chief minister Oommen Chandy, the government employees can be made to sign an affidavit saying they will neither accept nor give dowry, and any violation should attract nothing less than dismissal from service. Imposing a deterrent tax on luxury weddings is another idea. Opinion makers and political leaders should set a model by opting for dowry-free and simple marriages. Dowry is a system that has no place in a modern, progressive society. It's time we did away with that once and for all.

IN PONDY, A MOCKERY OF DEMOCRACY

The wait for a government has been a really long one for the Union territory of Puducherry. The voters inked their preference on April 6, and almost a month later, on May 2, the verdict was out. But it took over 45 days to come closer to ministry formation. The bargaining for Cabinet positions that started after the swearing in of N Rangasamy as CM on May 6 finally ended on Wednesday when he submitted a list of members of his ministry to the Lt Governor.

The delay occurred despite the clean sweep by the AINRC-led NDA that has the BJP as the other major player. The BJP's bargaining for top slots with only six MLAs in its kitty was not acceptable to the CM, whose AINRC has 10 legislators. But the fabric was changed after the CM's hospitalisation two days after swearing-in, as the BJP nominated three of its partymen as MLAs, besides getting the support of three Independent MLAs. A sulking Rangasamy chose to not take calls from the BJP all through his hospital stay after being afflicted with Covid and even after resuming duty. Finally, good democratic sense prevailed, with the parties breaking the impasse. The BJP initially insisted on the deputy CM position for its prized pre-poll catch, ex-Congressman A Namassivayam, and finally settled for the Speaker's post for 'Embalam' R Selvam. Rangasamy's list now is a six-member ministry, four from the AINRC, including the CM, and two from the BJP.

The BJP's initial list had featured Sai J Saravanan Kumar, a first-time MLA who has been with the party for over a decade, A Namassivayam, and John Kumar, another former Congressman. But finally only the first two made the cut. The NR Congress, on its part, ruminated for long as it had a three-pronged dilemma: to choose among three senior MLAs, ensuring representation to Karaikal and getting on board an SC leader.

Puducherry is not new to instability. But without a functioning government, especially during Covid, the exercise of franchise was almost reduced to a mockery of democracy. The new Cabinet, to be sworn in on June 27, has to hit the ground running.

That the talks have not produced a breakthrough was expected. But they send out a powerful signal that the Modi government is committed to the democratic process

'NAYA KASHMIR' DOESN'T MEAN COMPROMISING INDIA'S INTEGRITY

RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE

AMIT BANDRE

No Indian should have any confusion or doubt about the importance of Jammu and Kashmir to the nation. Nor what was really at stake in Prime Minister Narendra Modi's meeting on the afternoon of June 24 with the so-called democratic leaders from the region. I say "so-called" because not only have the democratic credentials of some of them been called into question, but so has their nationalism and patriotism.

No surprise that on the eve of the talks, Mehbooba Mufti, PDP leader and former chief minister, called on our government to talk to Pakistan. Does this mean that she ignores or absolves the latter's continuing cross-border terrorism or its three wars with India over Kashmir? Or that she takes seriously the Pakistani precondition for peace, which is the restoration of J&K's statehood, if not special status, which the modification of Article 370 of the Constitution effected?

Or, to shift the focus to the ruling party itself, how can the BJP forget the sacrifice of Syama Prasad Mookerjee, the first president of its predecessor party, the Bharatiya Jana Sangh? Mookerjee had popularised the slogan, "Ek desh mein do vidhan, do pradhan aur do nishan nahi challenge, nahi challenge" (You cannot have, cannot have two legislatures, two heads, and two flags in one country). He offered satyagraha against Article 370 by entering Kashmir on 11 May 1953 without a permit.

Mookerjee was arrested and imprisoned, first at the Central Jail in Srinagar and then placed under house arrest when his health deteriorated. On June 23, he died under what have been described as "suspicious circumstances". He was not yet 52 years old. Former prime minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee in 2004 had called his arrest and death a "Nehru conspiracy". Given that Modi's meeting with the "Gupkar Alliance" happened just a day after Mookerjee's 48th death anniversary, it would be impossible to ignore its symbolic and political import.

Whatever has transpired in the June 24th talks, purposely held "without an agenda", only reiterates that the reinstation of Article 370 or 35A and J&K's special status is not on the table. But, whether for strategic or political reasons, that is exactly what several members of the Gupkar alliance have demanded as a minimum condition. If this is not an echoing of the Pakistan line, it is, at the very least, an admission of just how much some of these politicians resist the full integration of J&K into the Union of India.

Pakistan, on its part, is watching and waiting with bated breath if its role in the region can somehow be legitimated or strengthened after the dialogue. It found itself upstaged, short-changed, and marginalised by the swiftness and decisiveness with which Union Home Minister Amit Shah steered the amendment of Article 370 and reorganised the erstwhile state into two Union territories, J&K and Ladakh, with effect from 31 October 2019. Surely, the government would do nothing to undo its own radical efforts to bring about a full integration of the province into India and to put an end to the ongoing separatism and violence.

That the talks have not produced a breakthrough, let alone a consensus of how to move ahead in J&K, was expected. One might also wonder why the Kashmiri Pandits, forcibly evicted from their homeland, were not part of the dialogue. But the talks do send out a powerful signal that the Modi government is committed to the democratic process. Reports coming in the aftermath of the meeting indicate that the Gupkar Alliance is sticking to its demands—restoration of statehood before delimitation, abrogation of constitutional amendments (though they don't mind that demand being pressed through the Supreme Court), state civil services restored so that those in power can appoint locals, and reunification of J&K and Ladakh.

> We must not succumb to the temptation of contenting ourselves with 'dreams and fantasies' but use adroit realpolitik to ensure that the accession of J&K to India is complete and irreversible. Those who live there deserve not only development, but peace and freedom from fear

The Centre, on the other hand, has made no promises, although it is being widely touted that the talks took place in a cordial and positive atmosphere. The real X-factor might be Congress leader Ghulam Nabi Azad, who was denied a ticket to the Rajya Sabha. Perhaps, a new political alliance might be brewing in the state. If so, it won't be the first time that the Congress's loss is the BJP's gain. Or, at the very least, what the talks have accomplished is to apply a democratic glaze over a constitutional coup.

To invert what one commentator said rather astutely, the talks are a "rinse and repeat" of Delhi's mantra on 370, 35A and deferred statehood. What is under the table, of course, is another matter, but the immediate restoration of statehood to the Union territory was also not on offer. As to the reiteration of the Centre's commitment on this front, it was nothing new. For restoring statehood, the precondition would be the delimitation of electoral districts, which is what the meeting was really about.

Kashmir is the very crown of India and a region of enormous strategic and ecological importance. Territory, political power and prestige are at stake here, as we all know. But the loss of Kashmir would be much more devastating than we can imagine. It would mean that the civilisational continuity and intellectual unity of India might be permanently impaired. As to unrest, it is nothing new to that part of our subcontinent. In his 12th century masterpiece, Rajatarangini, Kalhana describes its people as "kindly or cruel, faithful or faithless, single-minded or ambitious" in turn and the place itself as "a country which delights in insurrection!"

Jawaharlal Nehru designates himself, in his Foreword to his brother-in-law, Ranjit Sitaram Pandit's translation completed in Naini Jail as, "a lover of Kashmir and all its entrancing beauty, because perhaps, deep down within me and almost forgotten by me, there is something which stirs at the call of the old homeland from whence we came long, long ago; and because I cannot answer that call as I would, I have to content myself with dreams and fantasies..."

We must not succumb to the temptation of contenting ourselves with "dreams and fantasies" but use adroit realpolitik to ensure that the accession of J&K to India is complete and irreversible. Those who live there deserve not only development or vikas, but peace and freedom from fear. Needless to add, the Hindus driven out and others from the rest of India should be free to return or resettle there.

Going back to Kalhana, we must place, as he recommends, prajaanupaalanam (welfare of citizens) as opposed to their harassment (prajaapeedanam) at the centre of our decision-making process on J&K. Only saaf niyat, sahi vikas will work to resolve the current imbroglio. We can be sure that the current national leadership is well aware of this.

JUSTICE IN CHOLA AGE: REPENTANCE, NOT RETRIBUTION

MADHUSUDHANAN KALAICHELVAN

Architect, serves on the govt-instituted panel for conservation of temples in TN

How did ancient empires in India maintain law and order, sans the so-called technological advancements?

Simple and easily accessible judiciary procedures seem to have helped the Chola monarchs in maintaining law and order across their burgeoning kingdom. Upholding dharma, as described in traditional Indian texts, seems to be the virtue held foremost by the Cholas. Citing Manu and Sibi Chakravarti in their illustrious list of ancestors, they unabashedly boasted of their tradition of upholding justice at all times and ensuring fair trials. The Chola inscriptions have captured several incidents that throw light on how the legal framework functioned.

Local courts were as powerful as the local administration consisting of learned scholars. Those well versed in smriti texts and dharmaasana bhattas were identified and appointed as interpreters of the codified manuals on dharma and its practice. There were no lawyers to argue cases and individuals were allowed to defend themselves in the Chola judicial system. The local jury in concurrence with the interpreters (though this does not seem to be a mandate) of dharma sastras would hear the plea and examine witnesses and testimonies if any before passing a verdict. Segregating cases as civil and criminal apparently did not exist and the jury seems to have conducted all trials together. Involvement of the king or other prominent people in power seems to have been rare, depending on the severity of the crime and its consequences. The concept of appealing to higher courts was mostly unheard of and the word of the local sabha was accepted as final.

Here are some interesting episodes from the inscriptions, thanks to a remarkable system of documentation that meticulously recorded them for posterity.

Sequestration of property and deportation from the country seem to have been the ultimate punishments. Crimes like rioting or bothering the common public invited the above-mentioned punishments. A detailed record from the times of Kulotthunga III from Kilayur, a village near Thanjavur, describes in length the enquiry and punishment given to two individuals for rioting and public nuisance. The record goes on to say that the list of crimes includes causing trouble to the Brahmins, Vellalas and the temple there. Considered a serious offence, the local court punished them both with a penalty of 1,000 kasu. As they had no money, their properties were confiscated and sold to the temple at an estimated amount of 1,060 kasu. The extra amount was accounted as the penalty for delay in paying the fine. This incident was considered a worthy precedent and a royal order was passed warning about a fine of upto even 20,000 kasu if such offenses were committed in the future.

In another interesting verdict, the local administrative unit held a woman guilty for not settling her pending tax dues. The charges were however denied by the woman but she was accused in a public trial in full view of her relatives and neighbours. Unable to withstand the humiliation, she committed suicide.

> Imprisonment, corporal punishment and death penalty were rare in the Chola period. For common offences such as cattle lifting and petty thefts and even homicide cases where there was no premeditation, the punishment ranged from penalties to endowments for burning perpetual lamps in temples. Here are some interesting episodes from inscriptions, thanks to a remarkable system of documentation that meticulously recorded them for posterity

The dharmaasana bhattas who constituted the administrative unit were likely deemed guilty and unfit to continue the enquiry, and the situation required the intervention of scholars and dharma adhikaris from other regions and districts. So, we find that a committee of such scholars discussed further and levied a fine of 32 kasu on the man especially responsible for humiliating her.

Common offences including cattle lifting and petty thefts were investigated, with the punishment ranging from penalty to be paid to confiscation of property. Endowments to burn perpetual lamps in temples seem to be the most popular way of punishing culprits. The standard chart of offerings gives a choice of 96 sheep, 64 cows or 32 buffalos as donations to maintain one perpetual lamp. The cattle thus donated to the temple are leased to the local cowherds and they in turn are required to provide oil to burn the lamp. In return, they can make an income through other dairy products but had to ensure that the cattle count was never less than what was provided by the temple. This can be understood more as a means to repent for the crime than one to be endured as punishment.

Surprisingly, homicide cases where there was no premeditation too appear to have been dealt with similarly; the accused proven guilty was imposed a fine of burning one or more perpetual lamps in a temple. One singular case involved a juvenile offender charged with the murder of another juvenile in the times of Kulothunga I. While cutting wood with a sickle, the boy accidently hurt the other youngster and the latter succumbed to his injuries; the local jury, after enquiry, ordered the former's father to create an endowment to burn half a perpetual lamp. In a very similar case but from the times of Kulothunga III, two men were punished in the same manner for beating to death a buffalo that was grazing their fields.

Imprisonment, corporal punishment or death penalty don't seem to have been popular practices at these village or district-level courts. Serious offences like harming members of the royal family, indulging in acts that cause riots or instigating rebels against the government have led to confiscation of property of the offender and his family, and sometimes the extended family too. The property was then auctioned in public and the money deposited in the coffers.

In general, a case was tried not on face value but by applying interpretation of dharma sastras to the events leading to it, taking into account the circumstances and more importantly awarding judgement to uphold dharma rather than chastise. The approach seems to have been more on the side of dharma and repentance than one that focused on punishment and retribution.

No unity among nations

This is with reference to Humans have endangered the earth (June 24). Global unity when it comes to tackling severe disasters is of immense significance, especially in the wake of the pandemic. But how far is this possible in the current scenario where there are many countries trying to prove their might?

Efforts finally bear fruit

It is a great relief that PSU banks have got around ₹9,000 crore from the sale of attached assets belonging to three fugitive businessmen (June 24). The government's efforts have borne fruit after a long legal battle. Similar efforts should also be made to recover money from other businessmen who have cheated banks.

Rising fuel prices

The price of petrol has crossed the ₹100 mark in Kerala. This is testing the patience of people at a time they are struggling because of job losses and salary cuts due to Covid. The Centre should lower the excise duty on the fuel. The Central and state governments should join hands to bring fuel under GST. The elected representatives should voice the concerns of the common man.

Much ado about nothing

Recently there has been discussion in TN about the usage of the Tamil translations of the words 'Union government' and 'Central government'. Whatever be the word used, it is the rights and privileges granted by the Constitution of the country that determine the status of states. The word states use is their own translation. Perhaps some derive certain mental satisfaction out of it, but they do not achieve anything beyond that.

Kiwis deserved to win

Congratulations to New Zealand for winning the inaugural World Test Championship by beating India. All the talk that India should have gone with an extra batsman or an additional fast bowler is bunkum. The Kiwis played well and they won. Period.

New champions again

There have been seven different winners in the last seven ICC events. Competition is improving, which is good for the sport. It makes matches more interesting. Weaker teams too can strive to reach the top, helping cricket expand its frontiers to become a truly global sport.

After swift decline, daily new cases on the rise again

Experts prefer to wait before declaring this a new pattern in Covid pandemic, but advocate increased surveillance and optimal testing

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

AFTER a swift decline in Covid-19 cases over nearly a month and a half, daily numbers in India again seem to be slightly rising over the last two days.

Experts, however, say that this is too early to see a pattern and the numbers need to be watched for the coming few days to reach a conclusion.

On Wednesday, 54,069 new cases were reported in the country. On Tuesday, this was 50,848. In comparison, on Sunday 42,640 fresh cases were registered, the lowest single day tally in nearly three months.

The weekly rolling average of Covid test positivity rate, on the other hand, was 3.2% on Sunday and 3.1% on both Tuesday and Wednesday.

While about 54,000 cases reported on Wednesday are still lower than the cases recorded on various days last week, the concern is that the last two days so far are occasions when the cases have risen in comparison to previous days.

In Maharashtra, total cases reported on Wednesday were 10,066 — the highest since June 17. In Kerala, which is leading the states in daily infections, 12,787 cases were recorded, also highest since June 17.

These two states are among the five so far, apart from Madhya Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka, where the Delta Plus variant, which has been associated with immune evasion, has been detected in limited numbers of samples.

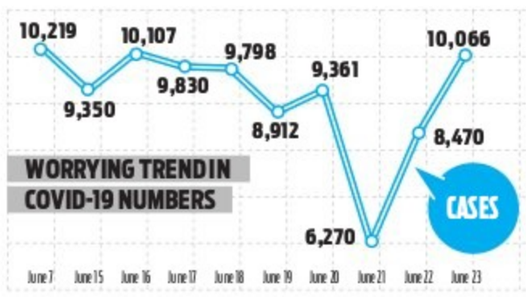
Fall unlikely to be steady and uniform

Health systems and public policy specialist Chandrakant Lahariya thinks cases will not keep declining rapidly. "Now onwards, the decline would be relatively slower and we may see a few days when cases would go up and a few days when cases go down," Lahariya said, while pointing out that at this stage, the key would be to focus on the districts concerned rather than national and even state averages.

Some experts cautioned that while the pandemic has been on a downward trajectory for a while, signs like this should be taken seriously, in the context of new information. "Given that the slight increase in cases is from states that saw early rises in previous surges, it would be prudent to be prepared and ensure optimal testing to be able detect simillar transmission signals across the country," said public health researcher Oommen John.

Health systems and public policy specialist Chandrakant Lahariya, on the other hand, said it should be seen as a normal pattern. "We need to remember that in a pandemic, especially when we know that the virus is still around and circulating, it is unlikely that cases would decline every single day," he said, adding that the country has reached a stage when weekly rolling average of new daily Covid-19 cases would stabilize gradually.



Maharashtra reports spike in numbers after unlock, Thackeray advises caution

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

COVID-19 cases in Maharashtra have suddenly increased, from 6,200 a day a few days back, the count crossed the 10,000 mark on Wednesday.

Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray has warned the district authorities not to rush to lift restrictions, as the third wave with the Delta Plus variant is spreading fast in some of the districts.

According to data from the state health department, when the unlock started on June 7, count of fresh cases for that day were 10,219. On June 18, the count was 9,798, and on June 19, it came down to 8,912. On June 21, it further went down to 6,270 cases, but the number jumped on June 22 with 8,470 cases, and on June 23, went up to 10,066.

The state has already reported 21 Delta Plus cases in Ratnagiri and Jalgaon districts. Chief Minister Thackeray has cautioned that the Covid-19 danger persists. "Based on scientific data, the state government has facilitated the availability of oxygen beds. Local authorities should not be in a hurry to announce unlock measures," Thackeray warned.

Government sources said seven districts are a cause for concern — three each in the western and Konkan areas and one in the Marathwada region.

Dr Sanjay Oak, chairman of Maharashtra health task force, said testing should be stepped up in these districts. He said that the focus should again be on 4 Ts — testing, tracing, tracking and treatment.

"Vaccination should be also ramped up. Small containment areas should be clearly marked," said Dr Oak.

"Maharashtra has set a target of producing 3,000 metric tonnes of oxygen against the current production of 1,300 metric tonnes per day. The state government has decided to encourage various companies to produce oxygen at a large scale," Thackeray added.

The Chief Minister has asked the local authorities to speed up preparations for the third wave and be ready to tackle it as and when it comes. "We are yet to find out how lethal the new Delta variant is. Experts have warned that the latest Covid version is deadlier than the first and second variants. Therefore, people of the state need to be more careful and authorities in all the distrcits should be prepared to tackle it," Thackeray said.

CLASS XII

States given 10 days to submit assessment rule

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Thursday directed state school boards to notify their schemes of assessment for cancelled Class XII examinations in 10 days. The court further directed these boards to declare internal assessment results by July 31.

"Each board is autonomous and different and hence the court cannot pass order on scrapping of Class XII exams. We direct the boards that schemes be formulated and notified in 10 days from today and also declare the internal assessment results by July 31, like timeline specified for CBSE and ICSE," a vacation bench of Justices AM Khanwilkar and Dinesh Maheshwari ordered.

The court also observed that it was not possible to have a uniform scheme of assessment for all state boards. "Each board may formulate its own scheme. However, we make it clear that we are not endorsing the correctness and validity of the scheme that will be formulated by the concerned board."

The court was hearing a plea seeking directions to states to not hold board examinations in view of the pandemic. On Tuesday, the top court had dismissed a plea challenging the decision of CBSE and the Council for the Indian School Certificate Examinations (CISCE) to cancel board exams this year due to the Covid situation.

Seven Delta Plus cases found in MP, two dead

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

AT least seven confirmed cases of the new Delta Plus variant have been confirmed in Madhya Pradesh, of which three patients who had either got single or double doses of the vaccine have been cured under home isolation.

Of the four remaining cases (all didn't receive even a single jab of the vaccine), two died after hospitalisation, while two others, including a 22-year-old woman and a girl slightly above two defeated the infection.

Of these seven cases, three are from Bhopal, two from Ujjain and one each from Raisen and Ashok Nagar districts. All seven patients tested positive last month. Genome sequencing of their samples at the National Centre for Disease Control (NCDC) established them as confirmed Delta Plus variant cases this month only.

Confirming that the state has so far reported seven cases of Delta Plus variant, Commissioner of Health in MP, Akash Tripathi told this daily that a silver lining in the dark cloud could be is the fact that three of them were either fully or partly vaccinated. "A 60-plus woman who had been administered double jabs won the battle against the infection in home isolation. Two other female patients, a 60-plus woman and a 50-plus woman in Bhopal (both vaccinated partially) also tested negative after home isolation, which raises hope about the possibility of the vaccines working against the newest variant," Tripathi said.

Two other non-vaccinated patients, a middle-aged man from Ashok Nagar and a middle aged woman in Ujjain, however, succumbed to the infection, Tripathi informed.

Importantly, the non-vaccinated female patient who died at hospital in Ujjain last month had possibly contracted the infection from her fully vaccinated security guard husband, who beat the infection under home isolation only. He had already turned negative, before his samples could be sent for genome sequencing.

Delta more transmissible, says research

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE second Covid-19 wave in India driven by the Delta variant is up to 40% more transmissible than previously circulating lineages, and able to evade up to 55% of the immune protection provided by prior infection with non-Delta virus and reduced neutralization by vaccines, said a new study.

The study by a group of scientific institutes from India, UK and hospitals in the country found that the Delta variant shows eight times (approximately) reduced sensitivity to vaccine-elicited antibodies compared to the type Wuhan-1 bearing D614G. The team includes members from Indian SARS-CoV-2 Genomics Consortium (INSACOG), the country's genomics consortium.

The Delta variant has significant immune evasion and fitness compared to Alpha. Vaccines will prevent severe disease/death in most people, but special measures may be needed for those who respond poorly to vaccination. Infection in vaccinated healthcare workers needs to be considered. "Severe disease in fully vaccinated HCW was rare, breakthrough transmission clusters in hospitals associated with the Delta variant are concerning and indicate that infection control measures need to continue in the post-vaccination era."

In an analysis of vaccine breakthroughs in over 100 healthcare workers, the Delta variant not only dominates vaccine-breakthrough infections with higher respiratory viral loads compared to non-delta infections, but also generates greater transmission between HCW compared to B.1.1.7 or B.1.617.1.

Vaccine enables better reaction to virus: Study

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

THOSE vaccinated against Covid-19 have a significant advantage in average duration of hospital stay, ICU requirement, treatment cost and mortality — if they needed hospitalization — compared to those not vaccinated, a first of its kind study from India has shown.

A retrospective research carried out by Star Health Insurance among 3,820 patients with its health insurance policies who landed up in 1,104 hospitals across the country in March and April says while the mean stay in hospital was seven days for the unvaccinated, it was 4.9 days for those vaccinated. Among 3,820 patients with Covid-19, 3301 or about 86.4% were not vaccinated, while 519 or 13.6% were.

The findings showed that among the unvaccinated population, 8.8% required ICU and this was 6% among those vaccinated. The need for ICU was 3% for those to have completed two doses.

Among those who received two doses, there was a 66% relative risk reduction in ICU stay and 81% relative risk reduction in mortality, the paper noted. It added that even among those with comorbidity, a single dose was able to significantly reduce average length of hospitalisation and treatment expenses. Mortality among unvaccinated patients was 0.5%. There was no mortality among the vaccinated.

While mean total hospital expense among the unvaccinated was ₹2,77,850, it was ₹2,17, 850 or about 22% lesser for those who caught the virus at least 14 days after the second dose.

Dr S Prakash, managing director of the insurance firm which has handled more than 3 lakh Covid-related claims so far, said the study was aimed at understanding what benefit did vaccination offer for patients, the healthcare industry and the country.

"Point that needs to be highlighted is this is a first of its kind study from a health insurance company in India done on a nationwide basis during the early period of vaccination in March and April."

Joint vice president of the company, Dr Madhumati Ramakrishnan said: "Those who took the vaccine had a clear advantage over the non vaccinated as there was a significant difference in terms of parameters like hospital stay, need for ICU, cost of treatment and death due to infection."

Firm & lab quizzed in fake tests case

Dehradun: Authorities questioned owners and partners of a firm and two pathology laboratories on Thursday, against whom FIRs have been lodged in the Kumbh fake testing scam. Mallika Pant, partner in Max Corporate Services and partner in Nalwa labs, was questioned by the district administration from 10 am to 4 pm. Mallika, who came with husband Sharat Pant, said: "We were called by the Chief Development Officer to present facts of the case. We were only facilitators. The labs conducted tests, not us." Her husband said the lab which conducted one lakh tests should be questioned. "We are not authorized for tests," he said. Earlier, officials of the mela administration were questioned. Some of these officials, including chief medical officer of the mela area, medical in-charge and Chief Medical Officer of Haridwar were told not to step out of Haridwar until the investigation is over. "Investigation is going on. We can't divulge more details," said an official.

Cong workers asked to help speed up vax drive

New Delhi: Congress chief Sonia Gandhi has asked party workers to ensure that vaccine registration takes place, vaccine hesitancy is overcome and wastage minimised. At a meeting of party general secretaries, she said it is for the party to play an active role in ensuring full vaccination coverage. "Rate of vaccination has to treble so that 75% of our population gets fully vaccinated by end of this year," she said.

Mandatory inoculation impinges on fundamental right: High court

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

MEGHALAYA High Court has held that vaccination by force or through coercive methods vitiates the fundamental purpose of welfare attached to it.

The observation was made following multiple hearings of a PIL, filed suo motu, after the Deputy Commissioners (District Magistrates) in the state issued orders which said shopkeepers, vendors, cab drivers and others of the like would be allowed to resume business operations only if vaccinated.

A bench of Chief Justice Biswanath Somadder and Justice HS Thangkhiew agreed that vaccination is the need of the hour to defeat the Covid virus, but said the issue also involves fundamental principles — whether vaccination can be made mandatory and whether such mandatory action can adversely affect the right of a citizen to earn a livelihood.

"Article 21 encompasses within its fold, right to health, as a fundamental right. By that same analogy, right to healthcare, which includes vaccination, is a fundamental right. However, vaccination by force or being made mandatory by adopting coercive methods vitiates the very fundamental purpose of the welfare attached to it," the court observed.

"It impinges on the fundamental right(s) as such, especially when it affects the right to means of livelihood which makes it possible for a person to live...Right to life includes right to the means of livelihood. Any action of the state which is in absolute derogation of this basic principle is squarely affected by Article 19 (1) (g)," the court said.

It said another question was whether any notification or order, issued by the state government can be understood as a prescription by "law" for the purposes of prohibiting fundamental rights. In public interest, the court directed shops, establishments, taxis, auto-rickshaws, maxi cabs and buses to display prominently a sign reading "vaccinated" or "not vaccinated" to indicate vaccination status of their staff.

Meanwhile, the Assam government directed all heads of departments to ascertain the vaccination status of its employees before releasing their salaries following the observation that many of them had not yet taken the vaccine.

PM quiet on restoration of Art 370

Govt functionary states govt's stands saying restoration of Article 370 is out of question

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

WHILE PM Narendra Modi told the Kashmir leaders that his government is committed to restoring statehood, he remained silent on the restoration of Article 370.

Sources told this newspaper that another issue on which the PM remained non-committal was the demand of new domicile rules, job guarantee for locals. Congress veteran Ghulam Nabi Azad said his party had placed the demand that in the new Bill for Statehood, the government should protect land rights through new domicile rules and guarantee employment for locals.

When asked about the government's stand on the two issues, a senior government functionary said: "Restoration of Article 370 is out of question and the government has already declared the new domicile rules."

NC leaders Farooq and Omar Abdullah, PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti, CPM leader Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami put forward the demand for restoration of Article 370. "Almost 80% of parties spoke on Article 370 but the matter is sub judice," said Azad.

PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti said she told the PM that the abrogation of special status has left the people "angry, upset, humiliated and emotionally shattered". "Be it months or years, we'll restore Article 370 in J&K as it's a matter of our identity. We didn't get it from Pakistan, it was given to us by our country, by Nehru, Sardar Patel."

Omar too said that he told the prime minister that the party does not stand with the August 5, 2019 decision when the government revoked the special status of J&K and turned the state into two union territories. "We're not ready to accept it," he said.

Omar also questioned the need for carrying out the delimitation process in J&K. After the 2001 census, the J&K assembly had passed a law, putting off the delimitation process till 2026, he said.

"We said delimitation was not needed. If August 5 was to unite the state with India, then the delimitation process defeats the purpose as we are being singled out."

At Thursday's meeting, Modi urged the 14 leaders to get on board with the process of delimitation and said that the election process in the UT will begin once the delimitation process is finished.

'Five demands put up before govt at meet'

SANA SHAKIL & MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti said she told the PM people of J&K don't accept the way Article 370 was abrogated. "We told the PM that scrapping of Article 370 is unacceptable to people of J&K. Be it months or years, we'll restore Article 370 in J&K as it's a matter of our identity."

"Almost 80% of parties spoke on Article 370 but the matter is sub judice," said senior Congress leader Ghulam Nabi Azad after the meeting. He said five demands — granting of statehood, conducting Assembly elections to restore democracy, rehabilitation of Kashmiri Pandits, release of all political detainees and that on domicile rules — were put forward in the talks.

People's Conference leader Muzaffar Hussain Baig said the PM assured he will do everything to make J&K a zone of peace rather than conflict. "The meeting was held in a cordial manner. We came out positive that hopefully there will be some delivery for the people of J&K," said PC's Sajjad Lone.

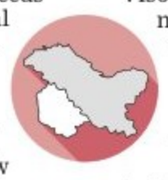
Experts welcome Modi's reach out to Kashmir

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

FORMER security experts and bureaucrats welcomed PM Narendra Modi's statement about removing 'Dil ki duuri aur Dilli ki duuri', terming it as a positive outcome of the meeting held with 14 leaders of Jammu and Kashmir in the capital on Thursday.

"That's a very positive statement coming from the Prime Minister. I'm sure the response of someone like Farooq Abdullah would be to say that he would act as a bridge between Delhi and Srinagar. I am sure all the leaders there would look for something that's good for Kashmir as well as for India," said AS Dulat, former R&AW chief and advisor to former PM AB Vajpayee on Kashmir.

Dulat said Kashmir needs a revival of the political process and that without it there could be no military solution to the Kashmir issue. "When and how elections will be held that is for New Delhi to decide, but Thursday's discussions will be a good beginning, a good first step. Statehood is something that New Delhi is committed to. Ultimately, Delhi's views will prevail but Kashmiris need accommodation and statehood is that accommodation I believe."



Skandan Krishnan, a former IAS officer who served as an advisor to former J&K governor Satyapal Malik, said that for issues such as reservation in jobs and domicile, the Centre could take a positive view of the demands.

He also laid importance to the timing of the meeting. "It's a positive thing. The timing is also appropriate because of the developments in Afghanistan and the fact that Pakistan has also agreed to a ceasefire that is largely holding. Also, terrorism has come down. So, Delhi would want to show to the world that the government is intent on restoring democratic process in the Valley."

He added that leaders of only the parties which won elections in J&K were called for the meeting, hinting that this process of dialogue will lead to "some good outcomes".

Regarding the return of Kashmiri Pandits to the kashmir Valley, the former bureaucrat added that it was an issue on which New Delhi would want to be seen to be doing something.

Toyconomy: PM goes vocal for local, urges greater share

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi interacted with participants of Toycathon-2021 and called for reversing the wealth drain as India accounted just 1.5 per cent of the $100 billion global toy market.

Mofi emphasized the economic aspects of toys and gaming, calling it 'toyconomy'. "Global toy market is about $100 billion and India accounts for only 1.5 per cent of this market. India imports almost 80 per cent of its toys. This means that crores of rupees are being drained out of the country. This needs to change," he said.

The PM also laid emphasis on the toy sector since it has the capacity to bring progress and growth to the neediest segments of society. "Toy industry has its own small-scale industry, artisans comprising of rural population, scheduled castes, poor people and tribal population," he said, while also noting the contribution of women. "In order to take the benefits to these segments, we need be vocal for local toys."

SCO meet: Doval talks tough on Pak terror groups

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AT the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) NSAs' meeting in Dushanbe, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval called for member nations to evolve an action plan to tackle Pakistan-based terror outfits like Jaish-e-Mohammed and Lashkar-e-Taiba.

Doval also urged member states to look at the possibility of signing a MoU with the Financial Action Task Force for countering terror financing. Pakistan NSA Moeed Yusuf was present in the meeting.

"There is a need to fully implement UN resolutions on terrorism. India strongly condemns terrorism in all its forms and is committed to bringing terrorists — including those who indulge in cross-border attacks — to justice," Doval said.

NSA Ajit Doval also had a meeting with Russian NSA Nikolai Patrushev | PTI

He also called for sanctions against UN-designated terrorists and entities and underlined the need to monitor terrorists' use of technology, including the dark web and drones to smuggle weapons.

Formed in 2001, the SCO has eight member states including Russia. It is an economic and security grouping often perceived to be a counter to the NATO. India was initially an observer member and later joined as a full member in 2007

Doval also pushed for greater connectivity including through initiatives like Chahbahar, INSTC, Regional Air Corridors, Ashgabat Agreement, saying it always leads to economic gains and building trust while emphasising that connectivity must respect sovereignty and territorial integrity.

On Afghanistan, Doval emphasised on the need to preserve gains made in the last two decades and reiterated that India supports the SCO's Afghanistan 'contact group' and wants it to be more active.

Later, Doval also held a meeting with his Russian counterpart Nikolai Patrushev.

Mamata urges for recusal, judge talks of 'media trial'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

WEST Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee on Thursday made an appearance during the virtual hearing of her petition challenging BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari's poll victory in Nandigram and sought the recusal of Calcutta HC's Justice Kaushik Chanda, before whom the matter was listed, for his "connection" with the saffron camp.

Banerjee's lawyer Abhishek Manu Singhvi mentioned about media reports and photographs showing Chanda's connection with the BJP. Responding to that, the judge asked if he won't be giving in to media trial by recusing from the case. He, however, reserved his order on her plea.

Mamata was required to be present before the court as per a requirement under the Representation of the People Act.

Earlier, Mamata had written to the acting chief justice to reassign her petition challenging Adhikari's win, saying Chanda was an active member of the BJP. Later, TMC spokesperson Derek O'Brien's tweeted a photograph showing Chanda sharing stage with BJP's Dilip Ghosh at an event. The picture was taken when Chanda was additional solicitor general of the eastern region.

Submitting that Justice Chanda had an "ideological, pecuniary, personal and professional" relationship with the BJP, Singhvi said, "Your Lordship will only be elevating your stature by recusing from hearing the petition."

The judge responded that during his appearances for the BJP as a lawyer, the party was a relatively unknown entity in the state and the judge before whom he was appearing was not even aware about the party.

Justice Chanda questioned why the 'conflict of interest' issue was not raised when the matter first came up before him. Referring to Mamata's letter to the acting CJ, he said, "...The practice is to approach the judge first on judicial side. But you approached (the) administrative side first."

Four held for blast outside Israeli embassy

New Delhi: The Delhi Police Special Cell has arrested four persons from Kargil, Ladakh, for the IED blast that took place near the Israel Embassy on January 29. The Special Cell acted with a central intelligence agency and the Kargil Police. The accused have been identified as Nazir Hussain (25), Zulfikar Ali Wazir (25), Aiaz Hussain (28) and Muzammil Hussain (25). They were brought to Delhi on Thursday for questioning. "The four persons have been detained for hatching a conspiracy to plan and execute terror activities in the national capital. All the accused are residents of village Thang, district Kargil, Ladakh," said Delhi Police.

Two options for Covid care centres

With Covid cases declining and keeping in mind the possibility of a third wave, the Chandigarh Administration has given two options to the organisations operating mini-Covid care centres — to either close the centre after all patients are discharged and vacate the premises or temporarily close the centre and retain the premises with own security arrangements up to September 30. The organisations running these centres have been given three days to write back to the administration on whichever option they prefer. A total of seven organisations were given the permission to run mini-Covid care centres. Of these, one organisation has closed down its centre due to poor response.

Civic body has new plans for garbage disposal

Chandigarh produces around 450 MT of solid waste per day of which more than 250 MT is solid dry waste. The Chandigarh Municipal Corporation is now brainstorming if, rather than having one big processing plant for waste disposal, multiple small plants to process the solid and dry garbage can be set up. If and when these plants are set up, they will use plasma arch gasification technology which employs a combination of electricity and high temperatures to turn municipal waste into usable by-products without burning it. One such plant requires around 400 square yards of area. A team have reviewed plants in Delhi and in Ambala.

Germany, France push for EU summit with Russia

Kremlin welcomes move; Ukraine slams bid as "dangerous"; Russia at loggerheads with EU members after series of espionage scandals

BRUSSELS

GERMANY and France will attempt to persuade EU leaders to relaunch regular meetings with Russian President Vladimir Putin on Thursday, in a controversial bid that Ukraine slammed as "dangerous".

Berlin and Paris, late on Wednesday, put forward a last-minute proposal for the bloc to contemplate the idea of a potential summit with Putin in the wake of US President Joe Biden's sit-down with him in Geneva last week.

Moscow said Putin was a "supporter" of the proposal, which would potentially revive a regular fixture that was frozen in 2014 after the takeover of Crimea by Russia.

"In my opinion, we as the European Union must also seek direct contact with Russia and the Russian president," Chancellor Angela Merkel told Germany's parliament ahead of the summit. "It is not enough for the American president to talk to the Russian president," she said, stressing that the European Union too "must also create different formats for talks". Merkel, who could be attending her last EU summit with German elections set for September, insisted that the 27-member bloc should meanwhile put up "a united front against the provocations" by Russia.

Ukraine's foreign minister blasted the German-French effort to sit down formally with Putin given that the longtime leader had failed to demonstrate any willingness to change.

"Initiatives to resume EU summits with Russia without seeing any progress from the Russian side will be a dangerous deviation from EU sanctions policy," Dmytro Kuleba said after meeting the EU's foreign policy chief in Brussels.

Merkel and French President Emmanuel Macron will face resistance from numerous EU member states — especially in eastern Europe — who were blindsided by the push and remain deeply wary of talking to the Kremlin.

EU ambassadors failed to thrash out a common position on the proposal on Wednesday and left it for the leaders to hammer out the details when they discuss the issue late on Thursday.

The 27-nation bloc is looking to revamp its strategy on keeping its vast eastern neighbour in check as Brussels admits that relations with the Kremlin look set to deteriorate further despite having already reached their "lowest level".

Moscow is at loggerheads with a number of Western capitals after a Russian troop build-up on Ukraine's borders and a series of espionage scandals that have resulted in diplomatic expulsions.

The Merkel-Macron plan insists the EU has to stand firm and united on Moscow, but should look to engage with the Kremlin on issues of mutual interest such as climate change, health, the Iran nuclear deal and conflicts in Syria and Libya.

Proposed draft conclusions put forward by Berlin and Paris for the EU summit say the bloc "will review the existing formats of dialogue with Russia, including at Leaders' level".

But they also lay out that leaders will ask the European Commission "to present options for additional restrictive measures, including economic sanctions" to push back against "any further malign, illegal and disruptive activity by Russia". AFP

Ready to fire at intruding warships, says Russia

Moscow: Russia will be ready to fire to hit intruding warships, a senior diplomat warned Thursday in the wake of a Black Sea incident in which a British destroyer sailed near Crimea in an area that Russia claims as its territorial waters. Russia said one of its warships fired warning shots and a warplane dropped bombs in the path of British destroyer Defender on Wednesday to drive it away from the area near Sevastopol, but Britain denied that account and insisted its ship wasn't fired upon. The incident marked the first time since the Cold War that Moscow acknowledged using live ammunition to deter a NATO warship, underlining the rising threat of military collisions amid Russia-West tensions. "The inviolability of the Russian borders is an absolute imperative," said Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Sergei Ryabkov. He gibed that the British navy should rename its destroyer from Defender to Aggressor and warned that "those who try to test our strength are taking high risks." AP

Many feared dead as wing of Miami condo collapses

SURFSIDE, FLORIDA

A WING of a 12-storey beachfront condo building collapsed with a roar in a town outside Miami early Thursday, killing at least one person while trapping residents in rubble and twisted metal. Rescuers pulled dozens of survivors from the tower during the morning and continued to look for more.

Surfside Mayor Charles Burkett warned that the death toll was likely to rise, saying the building manager told him the tower was quite full at the time of the collapse around 1:30am.

"The building is literally pancaked," Burkett said. "That is heartbreaking because it doesn't mean to me that we are going to be as successful as we wanted to be in finding people alive." About half of the building's 130 units collapsed, Miami-Dade County Mayor Daniella Levine Cava told a news conference. Rescuers pulled at least 35 people from the wreckage by mid-morning, and heavy equipment was being brought in to help stabilize the structure to give them more access, Raide Jadallah of Miami-Dade Fire and Rescue said.

Earlier, Burkett said two people were brought to the hospital, one of whom died. He added that 15 families walked out of the building on their own.

Work is being done on the building's roof, but Burkett said he did not see how that could have caused the collapse. Authorities did not said what the cause may be. AP

93, including 16 LTTE terror suspects, released

Colombo: Sri Lanka on Thursday released 93 prisoners, including 16 LTTE terror suspects held without charges, after they were pardoned by President Gotabaya Rajapaksa. The prisoners were released on the presidential pardon on the occasion of Poson Poya, an annual festival celebrated by Sri Lanka's Buddhist majority to mark the arrival of Buddhism in the country. Prison spokesman Thushara Upuldeniya said the suspects belonging to the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) were among the 93 who had received the presidential pardon. They have been released from the prison in the northern town of Jaffna and the north-central town of Anuradhapura. They were arrested under the provisions of the Prevention of Terrorism Act. Cleric gets another 4-year jail for concealing Covid test result

Jakarta: An influential firebrand cleric was sentenced to another four years in prison in Indonesia on Thursday for concealing information about his coronavirus test result. The three-judge panel at East Jakarta District Court, which was under heavy police and military guard, ruled that Rizieq Shihab had lied about his Covid test result, which made contact tracing more difficult. Shihab has been detained since December 13. The judges ordered the time he has already served to be deducted from his sentence. AP

Ex-prez Benigno Aquino dies at 61

Manila: Former Philippine President Benigno Aquino III, the son of pro-democracy icons who helped topple dictator Ferdinand Marcos and had troublesome ties with China, died on Thursday, a cousin and public officials said. He was 61. Details of his death were not immediately made public by members of his family. But one of his former Cabinet official, Rogelio Singson, said Aquino had been undergoing dialysis and was preparing for a kidney transplant. Aquino, who served as president from 2010 to 2016, was the heir to a political legacy of a family that has been regarded as a bulwark against authoritarianism in the Philippines. His father, former Sen Benigno Aquino Jr, was assassinated in 1983 while under military custody at the Manila international airport. His mother, Corazon Aquino, led the 1986 'people power' revolt that ousted Marcos. AP

White House, lawmakers strike deal to rebuild US infrastructure

WASHINGTON

US President Joe Biden announced on Thursday he has reached a deal with a bipartisan group of senators to rebuild the nation's infrastructure, likely unlocking the most funding for roads, bridges and ports in decades.

"We have a deal," Biden said at the White House, adding on Twitter that a group of five Democrats and five Republicans "has come together and forged an infrastructure agreement that will create millions of American jobs."

The president sat down with the lawmakers at the White House to cap weeks of negotiations on Capitol Hill, where Democrats and Republicans have squared off in tense negotiations over the size and scope of the funding.

Biden will deliver remarks on the deal late in the day, the White House said.

Joe Biden, US President

A breakthrough on a tentative agreement came late Wednesday, with the senators reportedly agreeing on a package of nearly $1 trillion, with some $559 billion in new funding. "No one got everything they wanted in this package. We all gave some to get some because what we did was put first the needs of our country, centrist Arizona Senator Kyrsten Sinema said.

"This does represent a historic investment in our country's infrastructure."

But negotiations on infrastructure are not over.

Biden has proposed some $2 trillion in infrastructure spending over eight years, including funding for some of his priorities like climate change mitigation, child care, schools and social services.

Republicans firmly opposed any inclusion of such projects in the deal, saying only hard infrastructure like roads, airports or broadband internet should be included.

But Democratic leaders are insisting that those projects be funded in a second track known as budget reconciliation, which can pass the 100-member Senate with a simple majority.

"We will not take up a bill in the House until the Senate passes a bipartisan bill and a reconciliation bill," House Speaker Nancy Pelosi warned earlier Thursday. AFP

Thailand's pro-democracy activists march against govt

BANGKOK

PRO-DEMOCRACY protesters took to the streets of Thailand's capital on Thursday, marking the anniversary of the overthrow of the country's absolute monarchy by renewing their demands that the government step down, the constitution be amended and the monarchy become more accountable.

The protesters defied a ban on large gatherings instituted to fight a coronavirus surge that shows little sign of abating. It was their first large protest after a hiatus of about three months caused by the pandemic and the jailing of protest leaders, who have since been released on bail.

The government of Prime Minister Prayuth Chan-ocha is facing widespread criticism that it botched pandemic recovery plans by failing to secure adequate vaccine supplies.

On June 24, 1932, a group of progressive army officers and civil servants proclaimed constitutional rule and the transition to parliamentary democracy, ending Thailand's absolute monarchy. The anniversary in recent years has become an occasion for pro-democracy rallies. Protesters gathered early Thursday by Bangkok's Democracy Monument, a traditional demonstration venue, to light candles and read out the 1932 proclamation of the end of the absolute monarchy.

Several hundred then marched to Parliament, which is due to vote on several amendments to the constitution. AP

Canada shaken by new discovery of 751 unmarked graves at indigenous school

MONTREAL

MORE than 750 unmarked graves have been found near a former Catholic boarding school for indigenous children in western Canada, a tribal leader said on Thursday — the second such shock discovery in less than a month.

The revelation once again cast a spotlight on a dark chapter in Canada's history, and revived calls on the Pope and the Church to apologise for the abuse and violence suffered at the schools, where students were forcibly assimilated into the country's dominant culture.

"As of yesterday, we have hit 751 unmarked graves" at the site of the former Marieval boarding school in Saskatchewan province, Cowessess First Nation Chief Cadmus Delorme told reporters.

"This is not a mass grave site. These are unmarked graves," he said, adding that each grave would be assessed in the coming weeks to determine the final number of victims whose remains are at the site. Delorme said the graves may at one time have been marked, but "Catholic Church representatives removed these headstones," adding that doing so is a crime in Canada and they were treating the site "as a crime scene."

Excavations at the Marieval school began at the end of May, after the discovery of the remains of 215 schoolchildren at another such former school in British Columbia.

That first find at the Kamloops school triggered excavation work near several former institutions for indigenous children across Canada, with the assistance of government authorities. Some 150,000 Native American, Metis and Inuit children were forcibly recruited until the 1990s in 139 of these residential schools across Canada, where they were isolated from their families, their language and their culture.

Many were subjected to ill-treatment and sexual abuse, and more than 4,000 died in the schools, according to a commission of inquiry that concluded Canada had committed "cultural genocide" against the indigenous communities.

Federation of Sovereign Indigenous Nations Chief Bobby Cameron described the finding as "a crime against humanity."

"The only crime we ever committed as children was being born indigenous," he said.

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau called the findings at both Kamloops and Marieval "a shameful reminder of the systemic racism, discrimination, and injustice that indigenous peoples have faced — and continue to face — in this country."

"Together, we must acknowledge this truth, learn from our past, and walk the shared path of reconciliation, so we can build a better future," the prime minister said. AFP

Antivirus pioneer John McAfee found dead in jail

MADRID

SPANISH investigators on Thursday probed the death of McAfee who was found in his prison cell after an apparent suicide following a court decision approving his extradition to the US on tax evasion charges.

The body of the 75-year-old founder of the anti-virus McAfee software was discovered at around 7:00 pm on Wednesday in his cell in the Brians 2 penitentiary near Barcelona in what a prison service spokeswoman said was a death "apparently from suicide".

Catalan legal officials confirmed it was McAfee, who had been held at the facility since his arrest in early October as he was about to board a flight to Istanbul.

His body was taken away by judicial officials who opened an investigation to determine the cause of death, a spokeswoman for Catalonia's justice ministry told AFP on Thursday.

> Guards and medical staff intervened immediately to perform resuscitation measures but doctors eventually certified his death
>
> Catalan justice department

"There was a death which suggested suicide but confirmation must come through the autopsy," she told AFP, saying it could be a matter of days before a postmortem would be carried out.

According to an indictment filed in a US court, McAfee was alleged to have deliberately failed to file tax returns between 2014 and 2018, despite earning millions from consulting work, cryptocurrencies and selling the rights to his life story. If convicted, he could have faced up to 30 years in prison.

"Guards and medical staff intervened immediately to perform resuscitation measures but doctors eventually certified his death," the Catalan justice department said in a statement.

According to the US extradition request filed in November and quoted in the ruling, McAfee earned more than 10 million euros ($12 million) in 2014-18, but never filed a tax return. "To conceal his income and assets from the Internal Revenue Service... the defendant ordered part of his income to be paid to straw men and placed property in their names," it said.

Since making a fortune in the 1980s with the antivirus software that still bears his name, McAfee had become a self-styled cryptocurrency guru, claiming to make $2,000 a day.

McAfee in 1987 founded the computer security software company and ran it for seven years before resigning. AFP

Cop who killed George Floyd faces sentencing today

Minneapolis: Twelve years in prison? Twenty, or even 30? On Friday, former policeman Derek Chauvin will hear his sentence for the murder of African-American George Floyd, a killing that sparked America's biggest demonstrations for racial justice in decades. Minnesota law provides for a minimum sentence of 12.5 years behind bars for the 45-year-old white ex-cop, who has been incarcerated since being found guilty of homicide two months ago. But Judge Peter Cahill identified four aggravating circumstances that could signal a much heavier sentence. He said Chauvin had "abused his position of trust and authority," had treated Floyd with "particular cruelty".AP

Lahore blast: Pakistan police arrest two suspects

Lahore: Pakistani security agencies on Thursday arrested two suspects involved in the car bomb blast outside the house of the 2008 Mumbai terror attack mastermind and chief of the banned Jamat-ud-Dawa (JuD) Hafiz Saeed, an official said. The Crime Investigation Department (CTD) has arrested two suspects, one of them a Christian, who had a connection with the sale and purchase of the car used for the blast, a CTD official said. The official did not disclose the identity of the suspects. However, the Associated Press named one of the arrested as David Peter. Intelligence agencies have arrested a man from the Lahore airport on the suspicion of his involvement in the blast, Geo News reported. Quoting police sources, the report said the man was asked to get off a Karachi-bound flight a few minutes before departure. PTI

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO WHOMSOEVER IT MAY CONCERN

My client Sri C.D.Jayanna, S/o Late Devekerappa, residing at No. 5, S.R.S.Store, Sidedahalli Main Road, Bangalore-560073 had filed a suit in O.S. No.2890/2015 before the Hon'ble City Civil Court, Bangalore (CCH36) for the relief of specific performance of the agreement dated 17/09/2014 against one Sri V.Kumara Swamy, S/o Late T.Venkatesh, residing at No. 23, 5th Cross, Gudadahalli Road, Near Sharada School, Sidedahalli Village, Bengaluru-560073 in respect of the schedule property. The Hon'ble Court was pleased to pass an interim order of Temporary Injunction restraining the said V.Kumara Swamy from alienating the suit schedule property as per the order dated 28/03/2015. The said interim order of Temporary Injunction is in force and the suit is still pending before the Hon'ble City Civil Court (CCH-36) for adjudication.

It is reliably learnt that by violating the said interim order of temporary Injunction, said V. Kumara Swamy has illegally created a Sale Deed in favour of one Sri Anantha Rao Jadhav S/o Lakshman Rao Jadhav on 12/04/2021. Based on the fictitious Sale Deed dated 12/04/2021, Sri Anantha Rao Jadhav is now trying to alienate the schedule property. The general public is hereby warned and notified that there is a pending suit in O.S. No. 2890/2015 and during the pendency of the said suit if any sale transaction is done against the prejudicial interest of the order dated 26/03/2015 the subsequent purchaser will not get better title over the Schedule property. Therefore the general public is hereby warned not to deal with said Sri Anantha Rao Jadhav or any person claiming through him in respect of the schedule property.

Reliance firms up ₹75K cr plan for green energy biz

Work has already begun on building a 5,000-acre new energy hub

JONATHAN ANANDA @ Chennai

RELIANCE Industries (RIL) is getting ready for a world without fossil fuels. On Thursday, chairman Mukesh Ambani announced that the company, which once derived the majority of its business from the petroleum sector, is now beginning a new clean and green energy business.

"The age of fossil fuels, which powered economic growth globally for nearly three centuries, cannot continue much longer," Ambani told shareholders. According to Ambani, Reliance will spend ₹75,000 crore in the next three years on its new energy venture and the new vertical is expected to help the company transform the legacy oil-to-chemicals business into a "sustainable" new energy unit.

Reliance's revenue from its oil-to-chemicals business had come in at ₹3,20,008 crore in FY21, down 29.1 compared to the previous year, and the unit's earnings before interest, tax, depreciation, and amortization (EBITDA) for the period fell 29 per cent to ₹38,170 crore, according to its annual report.

Work has already begun on building a 5,000-acre new energy hub in Jamnagar, Gujarat, he noted. "Jamnagar was the cradle of our old energy business," Ambani said, "Jamnagar will also be the cradle of our new energy business". The Dhirubhai Ambani Green Energy Giga Complex will be amongst the largest integrated renewable energy manufacturing facilities in the world and will support Reliance's three-phase plan for its new venture.

As part of its strategy, Reliance is planning to build four "Giga factories": a solar manufacturing units, a fuel-cell manufacturing facility, a battery factory to enhance energy storage, and an electrolyzer unit to produce green hydrogen. All these facilities will be provided infrastructure and utility support by the planned green energy complex. Reliance will invest ₹60,000 crore in these facilities over the next three years, with another ₹15,000 crore investment planned for developing the value chain, into partnerships, future technologies, including upstream and downstream industries.

JioPhone Next to go on sale on Sept 10: Ambani

Chennai: Reliance is also taking the next step in its Jio Phone rollout, with Ambani announcing on Thursday that the Jio Phone Next, developed jointly by Reliance and Google for the Indian market, will be launched on Ganesh Chaturthi this year, September 10.

The phone is set to enhance Jio's muscle in the telecom market at a time when competitors have begun catching up, in terms of both user additions and revenue shares. According to Ambani, the smartphone will be "ultra-affordable", run on an extremely optimised version of the Android Operating System, and support the entire suite of applications from both Google and Jio.

Google CEO Sundar Pichai told Reliance shareholders that the phone "will offer language and translation features, a great camera, and support for the latest Android updates". "It is built for India... And it will open up new possibilities for millions of new users who will experience the internet for the very first time...," Pichai said.

RBI issues NBFC dividend payout norms

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has set a relatively relaxed criteria for dividend payout, as compared with the draft guidelines, for non-bank lenders (NBFCs) seeking to pay dividends to shareholders from the ongoing financial year.

According to the new guidelines, both NBFCs and housing financiers will need to meet certain benchmarks to qualify for a dividend payment. For instance, firms with net NPAs above six per cent for each of the last three financial years, including the year when the dividend is announced, will not be able to pay a dividend.

The dividend payout ratio, which is the ratio between the amount of the dividend payable in a year and the net profit, is now capped at 50 to 60 per cent, depending upon the nature of the business. However, there will be no cap on NBFCs that do not accept deposits.

"Over the last three years, dividend payout ratios have been about 10-20 per cent for most entities, with few in the range of 20-30 per cent... We expect dividend payout for most NBFCs is unlikely to be impacted," said Manushree Saggar, vice-president and sector head at ICRA.

The growing significance of NBFCs has made it imperative to put in place such criteria for declaration of dividend by different categories of NBFCs.

The other criteria is an NBFC will need to meet the mandated capital requirement for each of the last three financial years. For instance, a deposit-taking NBFC should have a capital adequacy ratio of at least 15 per cent for the last three years.

The non-deposit-taking NBFC should have leverage ratio of below 7 per cent for the last three years, and a core investment company should have adjusted net worth of at least 30 per cent of its aggregate risk-weighted assets on its balance sheet and risk adjusted value on off-balance sheet items for the last three years. Standalone primary dealers should maintain a minimum capital-to-risk weighted assets ratio of 20 per cent for the financial year for which dividend is proposed.

MCA broadens small firm definition, raises turnover and borrowing limits

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) has expanded the definition of small and medium sized companies (SMCs) by raising their turnover and borrowing limits in a bid to simplify accounting processes and lessen compliance burden for small firms.

According to the new definition, an SMC is an unlisted company, which are not banks, financial institutions or insurance firms with sales of up to ₹250 crore and borrowings up to ₹50 crore. Earlier, companies with sales of ₹50 crore and borrowings of ₹10 crore under the general accounting standards were qualified to be called SMC. In a notification issued on Wednesday, the ministry said the Companies (Accounting Standards) Rules, 2021, will be effective from April 1, 2021. This means that all the companies with sales upto ₹250 crore can now follow simplified accounting standards for making general purpose financial statements such as balance sheet, statement of profit and loss, cash flow statement and other statements and explanatory notes.

> These amendments are a welcome step as it will lessen the compliance burden faced by these companies
>
> Vikas Gupta
> Partner, Nangia & Co LLP

"These amendments are a welcome step as it will lessen the compliance burden faced by these companies," said Vikas Gupta, Partner, Nangia & Co LLP. The condition to qualify as SMC is to be checked at the end of a relevant accounting period. For companies which have a turnover of less than ₹500 crore and net worth of less than ₹250 crore, the general purpose accounting standards of ICAI apply.

IPO TALES

Sona Comstar, Shyam Metalics show diverse listing pattern

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TWO companies listed on the exchanges on Thursday with diverse listings — one saw a stellar opening while the other witnessed a lacklustre opening. However, these two IPOs are expected to give promising returns in the next few years, say analysts.

Shares of Sona BLW Precision Forgings (Sona Comstar) closed 20 per cent higher (upper circuit) even as its listing gains of 4 per cent were lower than many IPOs of recent times. The auto-component maker got listed at ₹302.4 on the BSE, but ended the day at ₹362.85, up 20 per cent. Its initial public offer (IPO) had received a tepid response and got subscribed by only 2.28 times last week.

Shyam Metalics & Energy, on the other hand, made its listing debut with a bang. While its stock gained only 2.41 per cent during the day to close at 375.85 on the BSE, it got listed with a premium of 19.93 per at ₹367. The ₹909-crore IPO of Shyam Metalics was subscribed 121.43 times between June 14-16.

According to analysts, the two companies have strong fundamentals and can give decent returns to investors in the next few years. "Investors can remain invested and ride the favourable metal cycle for the next few years, especially for a company like Shyam Metalics which has low leverage levels," said Milan Desai, lead equity analyst, Angel Broking. As for Sona, the stock could be a wealth creator in 3-5 years as the company has proven track record.

Fuel tax to swell revenue of states past pre-Covid highs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

REVENUE of India's top ten states is set to exceed the pre-pandemic levels on account of rise in tax collection on petroleum products, according to a Crisil report.

"We expect sales tax revenue for states to increase 30 per cent this fiscal from FY20 levels, even as fuel volume remains 2-3 per cent lower than the pre-pandemic levels. The price of crude oil is seen hovering at $70 per barrel on average this fiscal," said Manish Gupta, senior director, Crisil Ratings. These states include Maharashtra, Gujarat, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh, Telangana, Rajasthan, West Bengal, Madhya Pradesh, and Kerala.

This also explains why both the Centre and the states are reluctant to reduce duty on petroleum products. The report stated that most of these ten states had hiked sales tax on fuel sales by 6-7 per cent or between ₹1.5-1.8 per litre last fiscal. That, combined with the ₹10-13 per litre increase in central excise imposed last year makes petrol prices above ₹100 in many cities.

For states, central taxes typically account for a quarter of revenues, state GST for 21 per cent, and grants from the Centre 17 per cent. Sales tax from petrol and alcohol contribute 13 per cent, and the rest comes from non-tax revenue, excise duty, stamp duty and others.

The Crisil report also pointed out that GST collections are expected to be marginally better than the pre-pandemic levels. "While the second wave of the pandemic may moderate GST collections in June and July, we expect a recovery to pre-pandemic levels by August," Gupta noted.

However, despite the spike in taxes, these states would still fall short of budget estimates.

Experts continue to give benefit of doubt to IBC

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE recent acquisition of Videocon Industries and its subsidiaries by Vedanta through the insolvency process for a paltry sum of ₹2,962 crore against the total admitted creditors claim of ₹65,000 crore has once again raised question on the efficacy of Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) in resolving India's NPA problem.

Poor recovery in Videocon is not a case in isolation. The insolvency data show that there are many cases where recovery has been abysmally low—less than 20-30 per cent of banks' claims. The overall recovery rate under IBC has not been a measly 39 per cent in 348 cases resolved till March 31, 2020. Aside from poor recovery, what has not helped the IBC's cause is a large number of cases going into liquidation. Till March 2021, 1,277 of the total 4,376 companies undergoing insolvency proceedings have been liquidated.

10 LARGE DEFAULT CASES WHERE RECOVERY HAS BEEN LESS THAN 30% OF THE BANKERS' DUES

Data has been sorted based on bankers' claim

Has the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) then failed the banks and creditors? The chairperson of insolvency regulator, MS Sahoo, in a recent interaction with TNIE said these kinds of haircuts are not unusual in any other jurisdictions. He says the amount shown as creditors claim could be misleading as many times companies under IBC have no assets left. However, he believes things will change as companies in future will come into insolvency in the early stage of distress.

Ajay Shah, an economist and a former professor at National Institute of Public Finance and Policy (NIPFP), says: "The old cases from previous recovery regimes had many firms where a lot of value has been taken out. So, it was always going to be the case that when IBC first came in, the backlog of cases would suffer from a low recovery rate, even if the bankruptcy process was perfect.

There have been positives of IBC too. As many as 17,000 cases of loan defaults involving over ₹5 lakh crore of loans were resolved even before the insolvency process could be started. The average time taken has also come down to 400 days from four years earlier.

Ex-SBI chairman Rajnish Kumar had said in media interactions that the success of IBC cannot be measured just on the basis of recovery rate. It also depends on the exit route which he says is much better than those provided under SARFAESI (Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002).

Airlines offer flash sales anticipating increasing travel demand

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MAJOR airlines have started offering discounts and flash sales to boost air traffic that had nosedived during April and May when India was reeling under a severe second Covid-19 wave. Now that infections are coming down and more people are getting vaccinated, the industry expects travellers to flock to airports.

On Thursday, Vistara announced a 48-hour sale of its flights for travel between August 1 and October 12. The airline is offering a one-way ticket for as low as ₹1,099.

"As the situation begins to gradually improve and demand starts to return, we are happy to invite travellers to fly the airline," said Vinod Kannan, Chief Commercial Officer, Vistara.

This sale comes a day after IndiGo announced a ten per cent discount on base fare for customers who have been administered either one or both the Covid-19 vaccine doses. While IndiGo had initially planned to offer this discount from June 23, it was later pushed to August 1 after realising that fare cap rule was in effect till July 31.

Domestic air traffic has seen 2x growth in recent weeks. The average number of daily fliers rose to 1.03 lakh for the week ended June 19 as against 49,000 for the week ending May 23.

India golfer Mane set for Olympics

Indian golfer Udayan Mane is all set to make the cut for the Tokyo Games as the withdrawal of Argentine Emiliano Grillo will push him inside the playing field. The top-60 golfers as per rankings and the qualification criteria will compete in Tokyo and the vacant spot will now be grabbed by Mane, who was reserve player behind Grillo.

Seeking fresh ideas for seam old issues

India captain Virat Kohli

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

YET another tumble in pursuit of an ICC title. The latest one coming in a format they have dominated over the last three years and in a match where India entered as favourites to win the World Test Championship crown. Such defeats are usually followed by sharp reactions from captain Virat Kohli where questions regarding mindset or preparation are cut short.

Apart from crediting New Zealand for making most of the conditions in Southampton, Kohli was blunt in his assessment of the batting unit. In each of India's last three losses in the knockout stages of ICC events, batting has been their undoing. In all of those — Champions Trophy (2017) World Cup (2019) and in the WTC final — they couldn't find a way to wrestle momentum against attacks that caused them trouble with movement. While the first two came with a white ball, the one on Wednesday against the Dukes was just an extension of their troubles in seaming conditions.

For a batting unit that has put up commendable shows in Australia, South Africa and West Indies, the seaming conditions of England and New Zealand remain a bridge that is too far to cross. In such conditions, it not only requires discipline but also patience to grind out innings as showed by Kane Williamson. Cheteshwar Pujara, who averages over 100 balls per dismissal, is the sort of batsman that teams rely on.

This strategy, though, is far from what Kohli wants from his team. He didn't take names, neither did he harp on showing intent, but there was some food for thought. "We definitely need to work out better plans on understanding how to score runs. We have to stay in sync with the momentum of the game. I don't think there are any technical difficulties as such. It's more down to game awareness and being more brave in putting bowlers under pressure and not allowing them to bowl in similar areas for longer periods of time unless it is absolutely overcast and ball swinging all over the place like it happened on Day 1 (Day 2)," he said.

India have reacted to each of their last two ICC knockout defeats in a drastic manner. After the Champions Trophy defeat, they reacted by omitting Ravichandran Ashwin and Ravindra Jadeja in favour of wrist spinners. And after the World Cup semifinal defeat in 2019, they have gone about strengthening their fragile middle-order. Given the squad for the upcoming five Tests against England has already been picked, there won't be any immediate changes.

However, going forward, beginning with the home Test series against New Zealand, indications are that changes are inevitable. There is a strong possibility that the team management might press for new additions. There is Hanuma Vihari in the side and KL Rahul, who has lost his place at the top. Slotting Rahul in opener's role could even open the door for Shubman Gill to bat in the middle-order or if need be even go for Shreyas Iyer, who has been consistent in the domestic circuit.

Ronaldo keeps Portugal alive with two goals in 2-2 result against France; Germany through after nervy 2-2 outcome versus Hungary

AFP @ Paris

CRISTIANO Ronaldo equalled the all-time international scoring record with his 109th goal for Portugal as the reigning champions scraped into the last 16 of Euro 2020 on Wednesday along with Germany and Spain. The Portugal captain netted a pair of penalties in a 2-2 draw with world champions France in Budapest to send his team through as one of the four best third-placed sides on a dramatic night in Group F.

Germany needed an 84th-minute equaliser from Leon Goretzka to rescue a nervy 2-2 draw with Hungary in Munich, setting up a heavyweight showdown with England at Wembley next week.

The 36-year-old Ronaldo gave Portugal the lead just after the half-hour mark with his first spot-kick, before France hit back through Karim Benzema's two goals either side of half-time.

But, with Portugal heading out as it stood with Hungary leading Germany, Ronaldo converted another penalty on the hour to help send Portugal through to a clash with top-ranked Belgium. "We did everything I wanted us to do (in the 4-2 defeat) against Germany," Portuguese coach Fernando Santos told RTP.

Ronaldo's fifth goal of the group stage extended his record tally of Euro goals to 14 and drew him level with former Iran striker Ali Daei, in his 178th international match. France finished top of the group on five points and will take on Switzerland in the first knockout round.

Unforgettable phase

The group stage of the European Championships has seen some glorious celebrations, shocking incidents and goals that will be recalled a decade from now. Here is a recollection of five moments that will stand the test of time...

Denmark's agony and ecstasy at Parken

As Christian Eriksen lay prone on the Parken surface, the spectators held their collective breath, praying for one of their favourite sons to show signs of life. Nine days after Eriksen was defibrillated on the pitch, Parken celebrated wildly on a famous night in Copenhagen. Their thrilling four goal show against Russia put them in the last 16.

Schick with a sick moment

More than four decades after Antonin Panenka's penalty, another Czech player scored a goal worthy of the occasion. In what was Scotland's first major match this century, forward Patrik Schick saw the goalkeeper off his line and produced a delightful goal from near the halfway line.

A night of Group F madness

France led. Portugal led. Hungary led. Germany led. Portugal were going out. Germany were going out. At one point, the 'As It Stands' table was seeing changes every minute. In the end, all the three big-hitters qualified at the expense of Hungary.

A UEFA own goal

UEFA missed a wonderful opportunity when they denied local Munich authorities the permission to light up the Allianz Arena ahead of the Germany vs Hungary game in the colours of the rainbow to stand in support for inclusion and fairness. A fan invaded the pitch with a rainbow coloured flag before the tie. The proposal was put to UEFA in the wake of an anti LGTBQ law passed by the Hungarian parliament last week.

Fans in the stands

After a year of watching sport played to the tune of artificial music and cardboard cutouts of fans, it was a balm to see real noise and real fans back. It is a reminder that nothing can replace one of sport's key stakeholders apart from the athletes — the fans.

SWIMMING

Uzbekistan Open results invalid

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE results of the Uzbekistan Open Swimming Championship in April, which also served as an Olympic qualifier, is invalidated as per the information on the FINA website . It is pertinent to mention that Indian swimmer SP Likith had alleged that the timings were tampered.

The Swimming Federation of India secretary general Monal Chokshi also confirmed about the meet being invalidated. It means that the timings of Indian swimmers, including Srihari Nataraj, who clocked 54.07s in the 100m backstroke does not count. "It has been invalidated by FINA.There were issues related to the timing. If there are any doubts or discrepancies related to the timing system, FINA would not consider it as an official timing result."

Likith learned about the meet being invalidated recently. "It is a good step taken by FINA. It shows the power of an athlete. Others should also stand up if there is cheating in the sport."

Deepika makes mixed team final with Atanu

AYANTAN CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

PRIOR to the Paris Olympic qualifiers, all the talk centered around Team India picking up one of the three women's team quota places on offer. Despite the lack of tournaments, the World Cup Stage I display had shown that India's archers meant business. But the team ultimately faltered in the opening round.

It was a testing period for the three archers — Deepika Kumari, Ankita Bhakat and Komalika Bari. But former World No 1 Deepika did not wait too long to silence her doubters. Just four days later, the 27-year-old smashed the competition en route to reaching a mixed team final along with husband Atanu Das. She has also reached the last four in the individual section and both the final and semi-final are scheduled for Sunday.

"It was a taxing period after we lost especially because so many had thought we would bring the team quota home. But I have seen quite a few ups and downs in my career and I knew the World Cup is going to be the last competitive outing prior to Tokyo. I refocussed myself and promised myself that I would be giving my best here. For me representing the country is an honour and with the Olympics just around the corner, there is very little time to dwell on past mistakes. The goal now is to keep improving and not let anything distract me," the current World No 3 told this daily from Paris.

Deepika has already qualified for the Olympics and the mixed team event is considered by most as India's best chance at a historic Olympic medal. And the duo played true to form to make their first final together where they will face the Netherlands. The duo was ranked fifth in the qualification round and got a first round bye.

They went on to blank Great Britain, before thrashing USA by an identical margin. The semifinal contest was far from smooth as the Spanish pair of Daniel Castro and Ines De Velasco put the pressure early on with three perfect 10s to take the first set. But the Indian pair levelled proceedings in the second before sealing the issue in the fourth with some fine shooting which included three perfect 10s and one 9.

Athletes Jisna, Noah hope to shake off rustiness

MARTIN JOSEPH @ Kochi

FOR the likes of Jisna Mathew and Noah Nirmal Tom, the upcoming inter-state senior athletics championship starting from Friday (June 25-29) is all about shaking off rustiness and getting ready for the Tokyo Olympics. Jisna, one of the famed quartets of 4x400m women's relay team, had a modest performance in her first major competition during the Indian Grand Prix 4 on June 21. In 400m she clocked 55.51s. However, Jisna's coach PT Usha believes that she will get into her stride soon.

"I think she was not able to pace herself during the competition. It was down to not competing for such a long time and that can have an impact on anyone. It creates excitement, a little bit of tension and the body is also not fully in that mode to race. I think she will be more prepared for the inter-state championship," said Usha from Patiala.

As for Noah Nirmal Tom, it will be about focusing on improving his timings. Noah will be racing in 400m and is expected to feature in the men's 4x400m relay, that is placed last at No 16 in the Road to Tokyo. After the disappointment of not being able to travel for international meets, Noah is hoping to use the Patiala meet to improve his timings.

Controversial Brazil victory

AFP @ Rio de Janeiro

BRAZIL continued their winning romp through the Copa America Wednesday, eking out a 2-1 victory against Colombia after struggling most of the match to answer a magnificent bicycle-kick goal — the home announcers hailed it as a "golaco" — by Luis Diaz. The win gave the "Selecao" a perfect nine points from three matches.

However, the win was steeped in controversy: Brazil's equalizer, a Roberto Firmino header, was preceded by a Neymar pass that glanced off referee Nestor Pitana. Colombia heatedly argued that play should have been stopped, but Pitana ruled neither side was hindered. Results: Ecuador 2-2 Peru, Brazil 2-1 Colombia.

CAPTAIN'S CORNER

Rani looking forward to Tokyo challenge

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

THE Indian women's hockey team did not win a single game (four losses and one draw) in Rio 2016. It did not come as a big surprise considering it was their first Olympics in 36 years. But, five years down the line, there cannot be much room for excuses in Tokyo. Several of their players, including Rani Rampal, who will lead the 16-member squad, Savita, Deep Grace Ekka, Sushila Chanu have much-needed Olympic experience to deliver the goods.

But, it will not be any easier with teams like Germany, Great Britain, the Netherlands and others in their pool. It is going to be a big test and there is no denying Rani and co will be under pressure to shine on the grandest stage of all.

"Pressure is going to be there on any athlete, even if the person has won a medal in the Olympics. It is like an examination, no matter how much you study and go, there is bound to be anxiety. The same happens with the athlete, but the thing is we need to know how to handle it," said skipper Rani during a virtual media interaction on Thursday.

However, one cannot just depend on the senior players of the squad. They have to work as a unit alongside Olympic debutants, including Gurjit Kaur, Udita and Navneet Kaur. If both forces combine, they could come up with good results. "We are going to perform well in the Olympics. Actually, it is a good thing some of the players have experienced the Olympics and some are making their Olympics debut. All the players have to bring their quality and as a team, we will have to play in the Olympics," she said.

The Games, which is going to be different from the past editions, brings in a fresh set of challenges due to Covid-19. Players will be regularly tested. They have to follow all the protocols in place. What makes it even more difficult is the fact how the teams' preparations were hit by the pandemic. They could not test themselves regularly against top sides but they have worked hard.

REMBRANDT MASTERPIECE GETS SECOND LIFE THANKS TO AI

It's one of the major acts of art vandalism. In 1715, large chunks of Rembrandt's masterpiece The Night Watch were cut off in order to fit the colossal canvas into a new home. Now for the first time in more than 300 years, visitors to Amsterdam's Rijksmuseum can see the painting in its original form thanks to a stunning reconstruction of the lost pieces

Restored version of a 1642 Rembrandt, The Night Watch

Dynamism revealed

The reconstruction has revealed the true dynamism of Rembrandt's original composition, with the two key people at the centre of the painting, Captain Frans Banninck Cocq and Lieutenant Willem van Ruytenburch, now offset to the side

Lost men

The lost figures of two men and a small boy have meanwhile been restored to the left hand side where a 60-centimetre strip was cut off the painting, which even in its smaller form measures a huge 3.79 metres by 4.36 metres

HOW THE NIGHT WATCH SUFFERED

PAINTING YEAR

Rembrandt painted The Night Watch in 1642 after a commission by Cocq, the mayor and leader of the civic guard of Amsterdam, to depict the officers and other members of the militia

HOW IT WAS REBORN

- The reconstruction of the missing pieces was possible because of a much smaller copy made in the 17th century by the artist Gerrit Lundens — but that copy was in a somewhat different style and colour, and from a slightly different perspective
- The solution was "sending artificial intelligence to art school", said Robert Erdmann, a senior scientist at the Rijksmuseum

If we were to simply blow this up and put it next to The Night Watch it wouldn't match in any way. So to help it match, I've trained three separate neural networks to help with this process, so that's a kind of artificial intelligence in which we can teach the computer by giving it examples

Erdmann, the scientist who led the project

MIMICRY

- The computer compared Rembrandt's original to the copy, and once it had mastered his style, Erdmann set it to work on recreating the lost pieces. Its mimicry was so successful it even learned to copy the minute cracks in the surface of the existing Night Watch, he said
- Finally the image was printed onto canvas, which was varnished and then placed on four metal frames

1715 The painting was moved to a town hall for a space it didn't fit. The movers cut on all four sides and the strips have never been found

1911 It was stabbed by a man with a knife in 1911, hidden in a bunker when Nazis invaded the Netherlands

Scientists around the world brace for Delta strain impact

Europe, N America and Africa on watch for fast-spreading variant

HEALTH

RESEARCHERS in countries such as Denmark and the US are expecting the Delta variant of the novel coronavirus to be become dominant in their nations. Europe's leader Angela Merkel also warned that the continent is on "thin ice" in face a surge in cases driven by the highly transmissible variant.

Experts say the delta variant spreads more easily because of mutations that make it better at latching onto cells in our bodies. In the UK, the variant is now responsible for 90% of all new infections. In the US, it represents 20% of infections. EU health officials predicted that the variant will make up 90% of all cases across the bloc by the end of August.

It's not clear yet whether the variant makes people sicker since more data needs to be collected, said Dr. Jacob John, who studies viruses at the Christian Medical College at Vellore in Tamil Nadu.

85 countries the Delta variant has been reported in

Studies have shown that the available vaccines work against variants, including the delta variant. Researchers in England studied how effective the two-dose AstraZeneca and Pfizer-BioNTech vaccines were against it, compared with the alpha variant that was first detected in the UK.

The vaccines were protective for those who got both doses but were less so among those who got one dose.

Countering Delta

Europe and North America have the advantage of substantial vaccination rates and hope that that will be enough to counteract the variant.

It is Africa that researchers are worried about. Nations in the continent have vaccinated less than 5% of their populations.

Tom Wenseleers, an evolutionary biologist and biostatistician, told the news section of Nature: "The vaccines will never come in time. If these kinds of new variant arrive, it can be very devastating." Researchers have reported sequences of the variant in the Democratic Republic of the Congo — whose capital Kinshasa is seeing its hospitals fill up due to the Delta strain — and Malawi, Uganda and South Africa.

In my mind, it will be really hard to keep out this variant. It's very likely it will take over altogether on a worldwide basis

Tom Wenseleers, evolutionary biologist and biostatistician at the Catholic University of Leuven, told Nature

Countries with close trade links to India are probably most at risk, Tulio de Oliveira, a bioinformatician in Durban, South Africa, told Nature.

But there could be a bigger danger in the future. "What most people are concerned about are the next variants — if we start to see variants that can really challenge the vaccines," Mads Albertsen, a bioinformatician at Aalborg University, was quoted as saying.

MALARIA CASES TOOL LAUNCHED

TECHNOLOGY

A new tracker has been launched to help Commonwealth countries monitor progress towards eradicating the disease by 2030. Developed by a group of malaria experts and the Commonwealth Secretariat, the tracker was due to be launched this week at the Kigali Summit on Malaria and Neglected Tropical Diseases taking place on the margins of the now-postponed Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting. The tracker supports a new report on progress towards the malaria commitment made by Commonwealth leaders in 2018 to halve malaria across endemic countries by 2023. This reduction would prevent millions of cases and save thousands of lives.

BYE, CICADAS. SEE YOU IN 17 YEARS

NATURE

They've been everywhere, crawling up trees and flitting about clumsily in search of a mate, droning loudly, causing auto accidents and even daring to land on the neck of the US president. Now the curtain is coming down for the latest brood of cicadas, the disquieting insects that appear briefly in their trillions in the US every 17 years. These huge swarms that have been spawning headlines for Americans are dying off. The infestation began in April and May in some eastern and midwest US states and Washington. For weeks these harmless thumb-sized bugs with striking red eyes and translucent wings did what cicadas are supposed to do: Emerge from the ground as babies, molt, mate, lay eggs and die.

US LAWMAKERS BACK NEW BIG TECH RULES

TECHNOLOGY

WASHINGTON: US lawmakers debated into the early hours on Thursday over details of legislation aimed at curbing the power of Big Tech firms with a sweeping reform of antitrust laws.

House Judiciary Committee members clashed while tweaking bills with potentially massive implications for large online platforms and their users.

Legislation being forwarded to the floor of the House of Representatives could force an overhaul of the practices of Google, Apple, Amazon and Facebook, or potentially lead to a breakup of the dominant tech giants. Critics argue the measures could have unintended consequences that would hurt consumers and some of the most popular online services.

Representative David Cicilline, who headed a 16-month investigation that led to the legislation, said the bills are aimed at restoring competition in markets stymied by monopolies. "Amazon, Apple, Facebook and Google are gatekeepers to the online economy," Cicilline said.

MAN TESTS +VE FOR 10 STRAIGHT MONTHS

SUDY

LONDON: A 72-year-old British man tested positive for coronavirus for 10 months in what is thought to be the longest recorded case of continuous infection, researchers said on Thursday.

Dave Smith, a retired driving instructor from Bristol in western England, said he tested positive 43 times, was hospitalised seven times and had made plans for his funeral. "I'd resigned myself, I'd called the family in, made my peace with everybody, said goodbye,", he told BBC television.

His wife, Linda, who quarantined with him at home, said: "There was a lot of times when we didn't think he was going to pull through. It's been a hell of a year". Ed Moran, a consultant in infectious diseases at the University of Bristol and North Bristol NHS Trust, said Smith "had active virus in his body" throughout. "We were able to prove that by sending a sample of his virus to university partners who managed to grow it, proving that it was not just left-over products that were triggering a PCR test but actually active, viable virus."

Smith recovered after treatment with a cocktail of synthetic antibodies developed by the US biotech firm Regeneron.

This was allowed on compassionate grounds in his case but the treatment regime is not clinically approved for use in Britain. Results of a clinical trial published this month showed the treatment reduced deaths among severe Covid patients who are unable to mount a strong immune response.

"It's like you've been given your life back", Smith told the BBC.

He and his wife cracked open a bottle of champagne when he finally tested negative, 45 days after receiving the Regeneron drug and some 305 days after his first infection.

Smith's treatment was not part of an official medical trial but his case is now being studied by virologist Andrew Davidson at the University of Bristol.

A paper on his case will be presented at the European Congress of Clinical Microbiology & Infectious Diseases in July, saying that his is thought to be "the longest infection recorded in the literature".

Automating Sales for your Business

Your business needs to automate certain aspects of the sales process. Automating will help your business scale quickly and reliably.

Define your sales process
To start your sales automation journey, you will need to document that sequence of steps that are required to close a sale. The more detail you have in your sales process documentation, the opportunities you can try to automate. Keep in mind that not all sales processes can be automated.

Selecting a CRM
A CRM (customer relationship management) is a software tool that can help with most of the sales processes before the close of a sale. When selecting a CRM, the most important part is to ensure that all the sales processes that are required by your business are handled by the CRM. Selecting a CRM is a delicate compromise between the budget you can allocate to the level of automation you would like.

The human element
Like all automation, a CRM tool should not be used to automate every single process. People should be used as part of the sales process to retain the humanness of a sales engagement. The CRM tool, for that matter, any software tool, is to assist your sales people to perform better and at a larger scale. So, when making changes to a CRM tool, always ensure you have the acceptance of your sales team.
